BASEBALL IN ADA? WE SHOULD SAY SO!

MEETING OF BOOSTERS LAST NIGHT DECIDES TO ORGANIZE PERMANENT ASSOCIATION.

An aggregation of about fourteen of the leading sports fans and "has-beens" met in the lobby of the News office last evening to determine whether or not Ada should become a real baseball center and take advantage of an opportunity that has long seemed apparent.

After much discussion which at times took on the aspect of wind-jamming on the part of the "has-beens" who once played the game and seemed to think that they still knew something about it, the meeting got dead earnest and started a plan that promises to give this city a baseball park association that will mean a real ball park by the time the season opens next year, and a playing ground that will be the pride of every player and fan in the country 'round about.

A most desirable location is at this time available and it is the desire of the promoters of the company to get organized and get hold of the property at the earliest possible moment. A ten-year lease can be secured at what is considered by all a most reasonable figure, and the location is ideal.

A temporary organization was perfected which is to endure until all the stock is subscribed and the company ready to proceed to business. It is composed of M. O. Matthews as chairman, Bill Coffman as vice-chairman and Harmon Ebeys as secretary.

A subscription list is being drafted today and the soliciting committee is expected to get about the work of getting the stock subscribed at an early date, possibly tomorrow.

The soliciting committee is composed of A. M. Gregg, H. W. Wells, Bill Coffman, Louie Keeler, Paul Anderson and J. M. Coleman. A special soliciting and advisory committee is composed of P. A. Norris, M. R. Chilcutt, C. H. Rives and Clyde Randall.

It was determined that the name of the organization shall be the Ada Baseball Park Association and that the capital stock shall not be less than $5,000.

While there were only fourteen citizens present, sixteen hundred dollars worth of the stock was subscribed right off the reel and all present agreed to take more if it should become necessary.

Luther Harrison and Mrs. Tom Hope, being members of the State Council of Defense, are ex-officio members of the county council.

Mr. Wadlington informed the News that this meeting should have been called some time ago, but this could not be done because the executive committee did not receive their commissions until last Sunday.

LOUIS DRUMMOND IS PERMANENTLY INJURED

P. T. Drummond of East Main street, has returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he went to visit his son, Louis, who is confined in an army hospital near that place. Louis, whom most of the citizens of Ada know, was wounded in one of the battles in France, receiving a shrapnel wound in one leg. He has been in the hospital for a year or more.

Mr. Drummond states that the limb will be stiff permanently and a bit shorter than the other. Otherwise it is thought the wound will leave him in good health and will in no wise shorten his days. There is no indication as to the time he will be brought home.

Notice, Royal Arch Masons. All members of the Ada Chapter, No. 26, Royal Arch Masons, are requested to be on hand this evening at 7 o'clock sharp. Work in the Royal Arch degree.

Don't forget where to get your leases, etc. Ada News office.

Lettish Forces Take Initiative Against Germans

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14.—Led by the officers after the panic that seized them when armored cars broke through the lines west of Riga the Lettish forces re-inforced by Estonians have regained their initiative and have moved back across the Duna River, across which they fled late last week, according to advices received here from Wenden. The Lettish forces never abandoned the portion of Riga east of the river, but clung to their positions in spite of a heavy bombardment from the German-Russian army that attacked the city.

Offers of an armistice from the army of the Russian general government have been rejected, it is reported by the Lettish government. Troops are being mobilized everywhere in Livonia and the neighborhood of Riga seemingly preparatory to a struggle against the invaders who suddenly began their offensive, Oct. 8. British warships in the harbor of Riga are said to be assisting the Lettish in driving the German-Russian army back from the city.

It is announced in Berlin that measures have been taken to prevent more German soldiers from going to Courland, the center of the German-Russian government, and that all food supplies have been cut off from the troops refusing to return to Germany.

PRESIDENT NOT MAKING RAPID IMPROVEMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Wilson's condition was generally good today, although he did not have a restful night, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians this morning.

The bulletin issued at 12:15 P. M. follows: "The President did not have a restful night last night. His general condition, however, is good. As noted yesterday, his temperature, pulse, respiration, heart action and blood pressure are normal. Signed: Grayson, Ruffin and Stitt."

Labor Asks That The Steel Strike Be Arbitrated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The demands of labor that the nationwide steel strike be arbitrated was reported to the National Industrial Conference today by the steering committee of fifteen without recommendations but with the suggestion that if arbitration is undertaken the proposed committees of six be chosen by the three groups from members or non-members of the conference.

Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the committee, announced that the groups representing labor and public in the committee opposed the resolution proposing arbitration but that a majority of all the members favored it.

There was no immediate action on the report, the conference adjourning for one hour after there had been a sharp debate over interpretation of the rules.

NEWSPRINT PAPER WILL BE MADE FROM STRAW

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—That newsprint paper will have to be made from the straw of wheat and other grains in a few years if the destruction of Canadian pulpwood forests continues at its present rate, was the assertion of C. Price-Green of Toronto, industrial commissioner of the Canadian National Railways, here to attend the exposition of Chemical Industries. The straw, he said, now is largely wasted.

"With but one-fifteenth of the world's population, the United States consumes one-half of the world's production of paper," he said. "At the present rate of consumption and destruction by fire, insects and fungus growths, one is forced to the conclusion that the time is not far distant when a substitute for spruce in the making of newsprint paper will have to be found, and one of the most likely sources of supply is to be found in the vast quantities of straw from the grain-growing areas which, at the present time, is being wasted."

One edition of Chicago's largest newspaper, he declared, requires the spruce of thirty acres of forest.

NEW YORK FACING THE STRIKE PERIL

SERIOUS FOOD SHORTAGE WILL SOON BE MET IF STRIKES ARE NOT SETTLED IMMEDIATELY.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—With at least 200,000 workers either on strike or idle as the result of strikes according to union estimates, New York today viewed with increasing concern the prospect of a serious food shortage rendered imminent by the refusal last night of the striking longshoremen to return to work and the continuance of the teamsters' strike.

The only ray of hope was the announcement by President P. V. O'Connor of the International Longshoremen Association, that the various locals would now take a referendum on the question of returning to work.

Virtually all of the fresh vegetables and other perishable foods are shipped here by express. The strike of longshoremen, teamsters harbor and ferry workers, has caused much food to rot on the docks and in ships. No coal has reached here for several days.

Lions Club Holds Lunch and Very Busy Session

The Lions Club of Ada met at the Harris hotel today in its regular bi-monthly session with a splendid attendance. The luncheon was in the usual good taste of the popular manager of the Harris and a spirit of good fellowship pervaded the entire gathering throughout.

The business session was held in the parlor of the hotel immediately after the luncheon, at which several matters of importance to the business and social interests of the city were taken up and discussed.

The committee from the club which is working with the city commissioners in the matter of the proposed improvements to be made at Glenwood Park as a result of the voting bonds for that purpose, made a report.

The committee reported that they had met with the city commissioners last evening and that it was the consensus of opinion that they had better let park plans wait until the arrival of Mr. Benham, the engineer, who has volunteered to help the city design the park improvements without charge.

The secretary read a letter from the department of agriculture at Washington on the cotton situation, and in consequence the local situation was discussed at length, after which the meeting adjourned.

Deposits in State Banks of Oklahoma Are Larger By $15,000,000 Than Ever

Increase of $30,000,000 Over Amount in Vaults Four Months Ago Is Shown in Consolidated Statement Issued by Department Head.

There is more money on deposit in state banks in Oklahoma at present than at any time in the history of the state, according to figures presented in a consolidated bank statement issued by the state banking department.

The statement is based on reports of the 594 state banks at the close of business on September 12, and shows deposits on that date were $152,606,136.45. This includes certified checks, individual and time deposits and money due to banks. This is an increase of $30,000,000 over deposits on May 12. The largest amount ever reported on deposit before was in November, 1917, when the total reached $137,000,000.

This showing is considered remarkable by state banking board officials in view of the fact that none of the cotton crop has been marketed and only about one-half the wheat crop has been turned into cash.

Resources of banks also show an increase of $28,000,000 over the last statement.

Following is the statement:

AIR RACE ENTERS FINAL PHASE TODAY

FLYERS FATIGUED AND SHOW LESS ENTHUSIASM OVER RETURN FLIGHT THAN AT FIRST.

By the Associated Press.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 14.—With twelve of the sixty-two original starters safely across the continent and preparing to start the return flight, the first lap of the army air service trans-continental race between Mineola and San Francisco entered its final phase today.

Only two of the fifteen original San Francisco starters remained to check in at Mineola. Five already have arrived and the other eight were forced out along the route by accidents. The two remaining flyers are Major J. C. Bartholf, who spent last night at Rochester, N. Y., and Lieut. P. J. Richter, who stopped over at Cleveland.

The contestants who finished the first lap at Mineola displayed little enthusiasm for the return flight. All were severely fatigued by the trip east which was made under trying weather conditions and several expressed the belief that no practical purpose would be served by continuing the races. All stated they have contemplated starting back if it is possible to get their planes in condition within the 96 hours limit set by the air service.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 14.

West bound aviators in the trans-continental air race who spent the night at Salduro, Utah, and at control stations just east of here have been ordered to remain at their controls on account of rain and heavy fog, it was announced here today. They were at Salduro this morning expecting to get away for San Francisco.

To Save Charred Documents.

Documents that have been charred by fire are rendered readable if collodion is poured over the charred paper. In a few minutes this dries and a tough, transparent coating is produced through which the printing can be seen. Bank notes and other papers thus charred have been treated in this way with success.

FARMERS AFTER EIGHT-HOUR DAY

FARMER DELEGATES AT THE LABOR CONFERENCE PUSH THEIR CLAIMS FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Needs of American farmers, including recognition of the right of the farming class to remuneration on the basis of the number of hours per day of work will be laid before the national industrial conference when it reconvenes Tuesday.

O. E. Bradfute of Xenia, O., one of the farmer delegates in the public group, announced that the five farm representatives will have a resolution setting forth the views of the farmers ready for presentation when the conference resumes its sessions.

Steel Strike First. Prior to the meeting of the full conference, however, it is expected that definite steps will be taken toward the settlement of the issue raised by the requests of the labor group that the conference appoint a committee to arbitrate in the steel strike. Action of some sort on this issue is looked for tomorrow when the conference's general or "steering committee" meets. Members of the committee who spent the weekend in New York are expected to bring back word as to whether mediation by the conference would be accepted by the United States Steel corporation.

The farmer delegates, it was said by Mr. Bradfute, do not object to the payment of wages to organized labor on the basis of an eight-hour day, but they believe that the farmers are entitled to remuneration for the longer hours of their working days.

Five Farm Delegates.

There are five representatives of the farmers in the conference, three of whom sit as members of the employer's group. The two others, including Mr. Bradfute, are members of the public group.

Several of the farmer delegates are of the opinion that a national farming conference will be called after the present industrial conference has adjourned and that settlement of the steel strike will be within the scope of the gathering now in session. However, they expect to take an active part in the discussion of the high cost of living question with the intention of showing that the blame cannot rightly be laid against the farmer.

Brimming Bowl of Wets Is Only 100 Days Away

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Constitutional prohibition is now less than 100 days away and liquor dealers among large stocks of bonded or other wet goods are impatiently awaiting the hoped for ending of wartime prohibition so they may dispose of their holdings before the constitutional drought renders it impossible.

The situation at this time is: First—War-time prohibition can be ended by presidential proclamation when the war is over, i. e.: when the peace treaty is ratified and when the country's armed forces are demobilized.

Second—The prohibition enforcement act, which has passed both houses of congress, does not intend the war-time prohibition and contains nothing to prevent lifting of the ban.

Third—The resolution of Representative Rainey, Illinois, to have congress declare the war ended, is not expected to get far. Attorney General Palmer has declared the end of the war will come when the treaty is signed.

Fourth—It is pointed out that the president can hardly issue a proclamation declaring certain conditions exist when they do not exist.

Fifth—It was reported today that pressure is being brought on various democratic senators who have "wet affiliations" to vote for the peace treaty with the threat that otherwise war-time prohibition will not be lifted even if there is opportunity. The threats, it was said, would be without effect.

The Town Gossip

YESTERDAY.

WAS A rather hard day for me.
AND WHEN I got home.
I WAS tired out.
AND AT about nine o'clock.
I WENT to bed.
AND MADE up my mind.
THAT I was going.
TO HAVE a good night's sleep.
AND IT didn't take me.
FIVE MINUTES.
TO FALL off to sleep.
AND SOME hours later.
I WOKE up.
AND HEARD the phone bell ringing.
AND I turned on the light.
AND LOOKED at my watch.
AND IT was exactly.
QUARTER TO TWO.
AND I wondered.
WHO ON earth.
COULD BE calling me.
AT THAT hour of the night.
AND I went to the phone.
AND A man's voice.
SPOKE UP and said:
"IS MR. Hodges there?"
AND I realized at once.
THAT WHOEVER it was talking.
HAD ASKED Central.
TO GIVE him.

THE WRONG number.

AND IT made me mad.
AND I told him.
TO HOLD the wire.
JUST A minute or two.
AND THAT I would see.
IF I could find Mr. Hodges.
IN THE Collonade.
AND THEN.
I LET the receiver.
STAY OFF the hook.
AND WENT back to bed again.
AND DROPPED off to sleep.
AND I hope.
THAT THAT guy.
WAS STANDING.
OUT IN a cold room.
SOME PLACE.
AND THAT he sneezed himself to death.
WAITING FOR me.
TO CALL Mr. Hodges.
TO THE phone.
AND ANYWAY.
I'M WILLING to bet.
THAT HE stood at the phone.
A LONG time.
BEFORE HE finally decided.
THAT Mr. Hodges.
WASN'T COMING.
I THANK you.

KIDS JOIN FORCES TO PROTECT JUDGE

JUDGE LINDSEY SHALL NOT GO TO JAIL, SAY THE YOUTH OF THE NATION—THEY ARE UNITING.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 13.—Boys throughout the nation are uniting to say: "Judge Lindsey shall not go to jail."
They're fighting to establish this legal precedent.
When a boy tells his secrets to a juvenile court judge that confidence shall not be betrayed.
The supreme court of the United States will soon pass on the law. And boys' organizations, headed by the Boys' Brotherhood Republic in Chicago, are raising funds to carry on the legal fight.
This all dates back to the Wright murder trial in Denver.
Neal Wright's father drank and abused his family.
Neal defended his mother and the father threatened to come back and "clean out the house."
He went for more whiskey. He returned and found the door locked. He banged on the door and demanded admittance.
Someone fired—and Wright fell dead on his own doorstep.
"I Killed Him," Says Mother—
"No, I Did," Says Neal.
Neal's mother hysterically screamed that she had killed her husband. Later she confessed to the prosecution.

Then Neal came forward and said his mother was trying to shield him.

"I fired the shot," Neal insisted. "I grabbed the gun from my mother who had threatened to kill herself. It exploded."

Police laughed at the lad. A minister brought him to juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey. "Talk to me, lad," he said.

Lindsey did so on the understanding, which Neal shared, that anything said would go no further.

This has always been the rule in the Denver "kids' court"—most famous juvenile court in the country.

Neal repeated on the witness stand in the trial of his mother the story he had told the police.

Then Judge Lindsey was called as a witness.

The prosecution asked him to repeat what the lad had told him in confidence.

Lindsey refused. He declined to say whether the story was the same as the boy told on the witness stand.

He asserted that the relation between the boy (practically a ward of his court) and the juvenile judge were the same as those between lawyer and client, doctor and patient, priest and penitent.

Judge John A. Perry found him guilty of contempt of court (without a jury trial, of course) and sentenced him to pay $500 fine. Lindsey announced he wouldn't pay the fine—he'd go to jail first. Then he appealed to the state supreme court.

This court by a vote of four to three upheld the lower court's sentence.

ing opinion in which he asserted it would have been highly opposed to public policy, decency and justice for Lindsey to have violated the Wright boy's confidence in court.

One of the four who voted to uphold the sentence was an open and avowed enemy of Lindsey. He could have been challenged had he sat on a jury in any case involving Lindsey, because of his attacks on the judge for his "Beasts of the Jungle" stories exposing Colorado's political rottenness.

Lindsey asked for a rehearing, which was denied.

He then appealed to the U. S. court before which the case now rests.

Neal Wright—12 when he says he shot his father, and now 16—has made a good record as a soldier in France. He enlisted in the army despite his youth.

His mother is happily remarried. And the boys of America remembering Boyland's primal law of "Thou shalt not squeal," are contributing pennies and nickels and quarters to a fund that will carry on the fight before the highest court in the land for the juvenile judge's right to respect the confidence of a kid.

This fund is being collected by the Boys' Brotherhood Republic, 1829 Republic Building, Chicago. Judge Lindsey repeats that if the supreme court upholds the Denver verdict he'll never pay the fine—he'll go to jail.

Germany's Hymn of Hate Toward France Pathetic

BY CARL D. GROAT.

Berlin.—Something akin to a "hymn of hate" is rising up in Germany against France.

So far it hasn't found emphatic expression in the press. But, every move on the part of the entente which displeases Germany is generally attributed to the influence of Clemenceau and Tardieu. And there is an undercurrent of talk which suggests that some day—not in this generation probably, but later—there will be new trouble in which Germany and France will again fly at each other's throats.

Theodor Wolff, editor of the Tageblatt, a man of sane judgment and mild language, took occasion in a recent issue of his paper to give France a lecture on neighborliness. While he didn't exactly sing a hymn of hate, he did point out quite significantly that, even though France had been sinned against, she might stupidly stir up new trouble for herself if she did not take a new tack.

Hushes Army Publicity.
And from quite another source—the conservative Deutsche Tageszeitung, an organ of the "right" side—comes the thought that Germany some day wants to use her army as an "influence" on the outer policy of the nation.

While the writer carefully avoided all appearance of trying to suggest dodging the peace treaty terms—and in fact wrote to the contrary—his editorial gives the impression that silence as to the army is necessary lest the entente watch too closely what is going on.

The writer says that many people want to see the army so built up that virtually all of its personnel can serve later as officers or instructors. But such public discussion, says the Tageszeitung, only hinders the building of the new army because it makes the entente more attentive to what is going on.

KENTUCKY HILL BOYS FIGHT DUEL WITH FISTS

Hapsburg Liebe, who under the original title, "That Woman," wrote "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, beginning Thursday, is one of the rising magazine writers of the day, who specializes in tales of the Kentucky hill folks. A rough and tumble fight between two lusty young mountaineers is one of the exciting features of "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, commencing Thursday.

Mr. Pickford has the part of a lad who is defending the honor of his father and he goes at the other boy, a bully much larger than himself, with a vengeance. They fight all over a piece of high ground and finally roll down a steep embankment before Buddy Apperson (Jack Pickford) deals the knockout.

WORK WAS THE QUESTION

In the Chicago railroad yards some I. W. W. wrote upon the side of a box car the inscription:

No beer no work!

When the car reached Milwaukee a brakeman wrote under the first inscription, the following:

No work, no pay!

En route to Madison another workman added this:

No pay, no eat!

In the Madison yards a maintenance man wrote the final chapter:

No eat, no live!

Politicians may screech, preachers may preach, economists may write, sociologists may slum and their combined output will add nothing to the dicta:

No beer, no work!

No work, no pay!

No pay, no eat!

No eat, no live!

Then work there is no other panacea. Work is man's natural state. Every normal, healthy man works, whether he has to or not. The world lives on production. Hence work must lend itself to production. The man who has an idea of a time when men shall live without work is on a par with the man who proposes to give everybody something without taxing anything from anybody.

A photograph of the side of that old box car with its philosophic inscriptions would become a national treasure if hung conspicuously within the commons of every American city.—Wisconsin State Journal.

MR. PENROSE TESTIFIES

In his latest preachment on the duties of congress, Senator Penrose corroborates in a surprising way the contentions of Democratic leaders—including President Wilson.

"Taxes ought to be largely reduced as soon as possible," says Senator Penrose. "How far they can be reduced depends on whether the congress can get out of the wasteful habit of improvident expenditures."

Is it likely that the republican "boss" had in mind, when he uttered this truth, the numerous republican "investigating" committees which have been roaming about the United States and Europe to gather campaign material while they squandered time and frittered away the public's money? Reduction of expenditures must precede decrease in taxes. So long as the republican "investigators" continue to spend, the people must continue to pay.

"On tax questions," Senator Penrose declares, in this same statement, "the republicans could not command a united majority, although nominally they have a majority of two in the senate."

Is there any question—except that of embarrassing President Wilson—upon which the republicans can muster a majority? They have thus far lacked even practical unanimity as to any proposition submitted to them, either by President Wilson or their own leaders. Even Mr. Penrose has failed to bring harmony between the senate and the house, or between the individual republicans of either body.

If the republican majority in congress continues to procrastinate in legislating for the soldiers, the latter will become eligible for old-age pensions before anything is done for them.

After having spent three months in a public exhibition of their discord, republicans of the house have decided to have another quarrel in private at the next caucus, November 10.

The republican majority in the senate filibustered against prosperity last spring and is now filibustering against peace.

The State Press

Oklahoman: A suit to test the constitutionality of the war-time prohibition act has been filed in Louisville, Ky. The Kentucky colonels seem to think that "war is hell."

Latimer County News-Democrat: when we think of the many rotten eggs Senator Jim Reed has been throwing at President Wilson for the past three years, we cannot get very

mad at the Ardmore boys for throwing a few at him. We like it, too, because the eggs were rotten. A perfectly good egg is too valuable to waste on Jim Reed.

Shawnee News: Have you stopped to analyze the entrants in the great congressional handicap which is to be run off in the fifth district in less than ten days now? There is one outstanding feature in both the democrat and republican lists, males and female, and that is that each and every one of the lot has held an elective or appointive office at some time since statehood or has been a candidate for one. In view of this fact it is hardly proper to refer to this as an amateur race, for it is strictly professional throughout, for everyone has been a paid player.

Miami News: If Mexico has instructed troops to fire on American aviators flying across the border, she is acting within her rights. So is the man who tampers with a hornet's nest.

Oklahoman: If the anti-treaty senators thought they had enough votes to adopt their amendments to the peace treaty they would have the voting over in a hurry. But since they know they can't muster a sufficient number, they proceed to kill time.

Wapanucka Press: Republican newspapers which oppose the league of nations made laborious analysis of the senate's first test vote on the treaty. But these interpretations all ignored the real point—which was that Senator Lodge and his associates feared to "go to bat" when they were called.

Ardmore Statesman: Up in the first congressional district of this state, a woman has announced as a candidate for congress before the democratic voters. As far as made public her claims are based on the fact that she is a woman, and that there are enough women voters, if they would all vote for her, to give her the nomination. The only published account of her record that we have seen is that she was a "police matron" in Oklahoma City for several years. As we understand the duties of a police matron, they are hardly of a character to recommend one possessed of them as "good congressional timber." However, let us wait and see what the women of the fifth district think about it.

The Divorce Mill

Mrs. Mary A. McClure has filed suit against her husband, Newt McClure, for divorce.

In her petition the plaintiff alleges that she and the defendant were married many years ago and that a decree of divorce was granted them by former District Judge Tom D. McKown. They were remarried on April 23, 1914. Four children have been born to the union. The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant has always been cruel to her, and that their second marriage was consummated only after the defendant had promised to be good and kind. Since their marriage, however, the petitioner states that the defendant has been guilty of habitual drunkenness; that he has abused her willfully, maliciously and continually applied to her vile epithets that were insulting in the extreme; humiliated her in the presence of other people; that he is extremely cruel and abusive to the children; that he has squandered both his money and hers, dissipated their property and brought them almost to want; that he purchased with her money an automobile and forced her to give him a bill of sale to same; that he is now in the city jail as the result of a drunken spree.

Wherefore the plaintiff asks for a temporary restraining order to keep him from coming home; to cancel the bill of sale to the car obtained under duress; to force defendant to bear the expense of the divorce suit; to grant plaintiff a divorce and the complete care and custody of the children; to pay alimony in whatever amount the court sees wise to grant; and forever bar

Beauty doctoring has become a recognized profession, and the use of lotions, cleansing creams, and many other toilet preparations, is an established habit with thousands of women. There is no getting away from the fact that complexion and hair respond to the care and treatment that counteract the ravages of sun, wind, work and, to a great extent, time. Those who have most successfully combated these enemies of beauty say that it is the little time (say a quarter of an hour) that is given EVERY DAY to the complexion or the hair, the regular biweekly visit to the dentist, whether there is an apparent trouble with the teeth or not, and the ability to avoid worry, that has kept them looking young and fair for many more years than their negligent sisters.

Care of the Hands. Hands get considerable rough treatment, but some women manage to keep them slightly notwithstanding the housework they must do. The homely and inexpensive oils, acids and powders that anyone has will answer as well as any others in the care of the hands.

First of all the hands must be thoroughly cleaned before treatment for any defect is applied to them.

A scouring brush should be used with a mild soap and lukewarm water every night, and apply it vigorously, drying the hands thoroughly; use a teaspoonful of borax to a basin of water.

Any simple soap may be used, but strong kinds should be avoided. A nail brush is necessary, and an inexpensive one will be as cleansing as a costly one.

As soon as the hands are wet they

defendant from coming about the place and molesting either the plaintiff or her children.

E. S. Ratliff represents the plaintiff.

A divorce case has been filed by J. A. Book against Alice Book. The facts set forth in the petition being somewhat unusual, we print the document almost in its entirety.

"Comes now the plaintiff and represents to this Honorable Court that he is a resident of said state and county and has resided in said state for more than one year past; past;

And for his cause of action plaintiff says that he was married to the defendant on or about the 4th day of December, 1918, in the state of Texas, and lived with her as husband until about the middle of May, 1919, when he and the defendant separated and have not lived together since said date; plaintiff says that he does not know the whereabouts of the defendant and has not known since about the first of June, 1919.

"Plaintiff says that he is entitled

must be lathered, and then the brush rubbed over the soap and the palms and backs scrubbed, brushing so the skin will not be irritated, yet sufficiently brisk to take out the dirt.

To Whiten Hands. A very good bleaching paste can be used at night, avoiding the nails, with a pair of kid gloves worn over it.

Snowy hands are produced by dipping them in almond oil; let them absorb all the oil, and then dip them in French chalk and wear a pair of loose old gloves that night. Another plan is to wash the hands in peroxide of hydrogen, letting it dry on them, and then rub on cold cream and wear old kid gloves. In the morning wash off with lemon juice, vinegar or cider, hot water, and then a disappearing cream.

Stained Hands. Cream of tartar will remove dye stains from the hands. Rub with soap and apply the powder thoroughly.

The Linen Frock.

Shown side by side with frocks of batiste, organdie, dotted swiss and chambray, there are the loveliest frocks of linen in white and delicate colors. Both the fine soft linen, almost like the French handkerchief linen, and the heavy coarse weave are liked. The heavier quality makes up beautifully into tailored dresses, suits or smocks.

Hats are also made of this coarse linen. One lovely model was in a delicate shade of pink and was trimmed with a heavy cotton fringe.

to have this marriage set aside and held for naught for the following reasons, to-wit: That he is uneducated, and cannot read or write and that he had been divorced from a former wife on the 9th day of November, 1918, by this honorable court and that there is a limitation in his decree to the effect that it should not become effective until six months from said November 9, 1918. Plaintiff, however, says that he being unlearned and being advised that it would be all right for him to go to another state and get married, he did go to Texas and marry to this defendant and that he then returned to the state of Oklahoma with her, and did live with her until about the middle of May, 1919, when he had learned that his marriage was not legal, and that he talked to the defendant about remarrying at the expiration of said six months. ## Many Women Like These "Roomy" Coats for Winter

And by "roomy" we do not mean awkward and voluminous but comfortably loose enough to wear over the winter gown with perfect ease.

Coats this year, at least those that are properly designed, remain straight and slender in spite of the fact that they are still warm and wintery.

These two Wooltex models are excellent examples of just such coats, cut straight and slender from shoulder to hem.

Let us show you other adaptations of Wooltex models in either severely tailored or trimmed coats. Priced from—

Parent-Teachers Get Victrola for Glenwood School

The Parent-Teacher Association of Glenwood was called to meet in a business session, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In spite of the inclement weather
a number of enthusiastic ladies came.

They decided to purchase a Victrola for the school; also voted to purchase some play equipment for the primary children.

As a result of the meeting, the instrument has been duly installed, and the play material will be ordered soon.

They also decided to have candy
sales at school and began by selling two well filled baskets today. In addition to their candy sales they will begin a string of teas as a means of raising money for the school.

Rev. Damron Returns.

Just returned home from Kansas City where we have attended the greatest general assembly in the history of the Nazarene church. People there from almost every country under the sun, about thirty-five foreign missionaries present. They sang and testified in the language of the country which they were sent to.

Missionary services Thursday night resulted in an offering of $1,003,000, all collections amounted to near one million and a half dollars, besides numbers of souls praying through to definite victory.

Some of the greatest preachers I have ever met. Everybody present seemed to have taken on new courage. A number of preachers from other churches were present and manifested great interest in the work
the Nazarenes were doing.

Remember the prayer meeting at the church Thursday night. Be there
if possible.—S. B. Damron, Pastor Nazarene Church.

Mrs. Jane Higginbotham received fine climate there very much. Chisholm was forced to go there for his health some time ago and Mrs.

Barnett has joined him there to make their home indefinitely.

Fire Protection Notice.

My attention has been called to the fact that several gas consumers in the city are using flexible hose connections on their stoves. The use of this character of connections is positively prohibited by both the State and City laws on the ground that same is very dangerous. Besides being dangerous the use of same increases insurance rates 25 cents on the $100.00 of your insurance. I expect to begin at once and will make as thorough inspection of the city as possible and those found using the above kind of connections will be ordered to discontinue the same, or else they will be dealt with to the full extent of the city ordinance in relation thereto. Respectfully,

SOMER JONES, Chief of Fire Department, Ada, Oklahoma.

Corn Crop This Year Three Times As Large As Last

Timely rains have done much to put the corn crop in good shape in Oklahoma, and a recent report of the state board of agriculture shows a state ahead from 71 to 73 per cent in the promise for the year. The best growing condition is reported in the south of the state with the poorest showing from the north and north-east sections. The forecast is for 67,627,000 bushels this year, or almost three times the amount produced last year.

Due to the reviving rains during the month, the sorghums continue to make satisfactory growth and will produce fair to good crops of both grain and forage. From the condition figure of 80 per cent on October 1st, it is estimated that the yield will be 28,204,000 bushels; last year's production was 15,260,000.

The total broom corn production will be considerably greater than that of last year, although the acreage is estimated at several thousand acres smaller. Reports from the northwest counties are that the late crop is maturing slowly, early dwarf corn yielding well and condition good. Most of the broom factories are busy.

As a crop barley is increasing in popularity in Oklahoma, due to a reasonable trustworthiness in poor seasons and a better appreciation of its feed value. This year the average yield was 30 bushels per acre, or about 10 bushels greater than the ten year average for the state. In 1918 the yield was 16 bushels; 18 bushels in 1917; but only 12.5 bushels in 1916. In 1916, however, all grain crops in the state were low; wheat produced only 9.7 bushels per acre, corn 13.5 bushels, rye 10 bushels and grain sorghums 7 bushels.

The month generally has been one favorable for the maturing and harvesting of crops. Pastures in the north were dry, but fair in the south and other districts. Plowing for the most part has been done under difficulties, owing to the dry condition of the soil.

When your food does not digest well and you feel "blue," tired and discouraged, you should use a little HERBINE at bedtime. It opens the bowels, purifies the system and restores a fine feeling of health and energy. Sold by Bart Smith.

Hats Agree to Disagree

An almost endless number of styles, with none of them dominant as yet, characterize the display of millinery and gowns this season. The powers that be in the production of them must have agreed to disagree, for every designer appears to have operated independently of the others—in a measure. In fabrics they are of one mind, put in costumes we have widely varying silhouettes—the straight and slim from one source, the draped figure from another, wide hip and crinoline effects from several. Skirts and sleeves from some authoritative houses persist in being very short—both are lengthened by others, and bodices reveal a disparity more striking than any other, going from very low necks to collars so high that they reach the ears. There is a lack of coherence in the modes, but in the wide variety offered certainly every type of face and figure can be suited.

Among the styles that have been received with enthusiasm by discriminating judges of good millinery there are many medium-sized hats. A group of four, shown above, presents widely different types, each of them having scored a success. Whatever may be the difference of opinion about shapes, designers are agreed upon the use of rich materials, and the four hats that constitute this group are fine examples of the mode.

The hat at the top has a moderately wide brim and represents the wide-brimmed class that includes many picturesque models that are very wide. This hat is of panne velvet faced with plain velvet, and is trimmed with a wreath of ostrich plumes ending in a short, droopy plume. Ostrich, curled and uncurled, is with us again in plumes big and little, long and short. It returns from a banishment that lasted several seasons.

The last hat recalls the Napoleon shape and employs velvet in two colors—black on the upturned brim and silver gray on the crown. Lengthwise groups of tufts with small gray tassels between them proclaim this a member of the tailored class, with leanings in the direction of trimming.

METRO CHARTERS TRAIN FOR UNUSUAL SCENES

A special train was chartered by Metro for a series of scenes in "Blind Man's Eyes," a story of gripping realism which will be featured at the Liberty Theatre for a two-day engagement and which shows Bert Lytell in a role of unusual power.

The train, with a full crew, includes a Pullman sleeper, an observation car and a well-equipped diner. The entire company spent two days aboard while the many scenes were being "shot," making in that time a trip over two hundred miles. The train runs through beautiful California scenery—giving many views of unsurpassed magnificence and grandeur.

Film Shows 'Court Day' in Hill Town One of the most picturesque scenes in "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, commencing Thursday, shows a small village in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The court house with its tall colonial columns is surrounded by the horses and the buckboards of mountaineers who have driven in for "court day." And back of all tower the great mountains, blue, mighty and serene.

Tapestries Brought High Prices.

A collection of rare and costly tapestries and furniture belonging to the estates of Augustus Kountze, James Stillman, and others, was sold at the American Art galleries in New York recently, and brought a total of $57,117.50. Charles, of London, paid $9,000, the top price, for a set of four allegorical tapestries, Italian, of the sixteenth century; $8,500 for an Italian Renaissance tapestry, "Harvesting," and $5,000 for an Italian Renaissance hunting tapestry.

SENIORS OF EAST CENTRAL ENTERTAIN

Responding to the kind invitation of the Senior Class of East Central State Normal School, the faculty as the honored guests, and the student body of that institution assembled in the gymnasium last evening for two hours of pleasure and entertainment. Cordially welcomed at the door by Mr. Conn Roach, class president, and Miss Anna Weaver Jones, class sponsor, the guests were presented to those forming the receiving line; the faculty and class officers. Chairs had previously been arranged in semi-circular style, here
the guests found comfortable places to visit their friends and admire
the extensively but tastefully decorated reception hall. An enormous amount of fall leaves and branches had been attractively twined about the enclosure of the balcony, which when in-terpersed with dahlias and shasta daisies gave the appearance of a veritable forest of flowers. Green and white crepe paper draped artificially across the room added to the decorations and suggested the class colors. Candles placed among a banking of green leaves and flowers when lighted gave a most charming effect. The following program was exceptionally well rendered:

1—Greek Dance: Alma Mount, Mabel Clement, Carrie Roach, Corinne
Moore, Faye Knotts, Thelma Mooney, and Ruth Mount.
2—Vocal solo, "At the End of a Weary Day," Clarice Cartwright.
3—Reading, Negro Dialect Selection, Frances Campbell.
4—Vocal selection, Mrs. Ruth Carter.
5—Gymnastic Dance: Faye Knotts, Corinne Moore and Addie Roach.
6—Treble Clef Club: "Oh, Susanna," and "Viva La Mouri," Alma Mount, Mildred York, Frances Campbell, Ophelia Gray, Dorothy Waggoner, Gervis Bills, Clarice Cartwright, Alyce Drain.
7—Music by Schreiber's Orchestra.

Immediately following the completion of the program refreshments of brick ice cream in green and white, lady fingers, and cream kisses topped with green were served by Inez Neal, Vera Lane, Savannah Keathley, Bertha Jones, Francis
Campbell, Ruth Smith, and Geneva
Ann Gordon. The concluding feature of the evening was a grand march led by Dr. Gordon and Miss Jones.

The decided success of the evening, pronounced by those present as the most delightful social occasion ever held by Normal students, was due to the untiring efforts of the committees, all of which were under the explicit direction of Miss Jones. The committee responsible for the attractive decorations, representing long hours of concentrated effort, was composed of Robert Wimbish, chairman, Helen Blanchard, Ruth Smith, Alta Marsh, Ralph Heard,
Vera Lane, Ophelia Gray, Clarice
Cartwright, J. H. Hodges, Carrie
Roach, Nettie Brandon, Zella Lowe, Galen Oliphant, Bertha Jones, Maurice Gordon, Conn Roach and Viola Leonard.

The grace and rhythm displayed by the girls doing the Greek and gymnastic dances was typical of the character of the work being done in the physical training department.
Miss Johnnie Anderson, who plays for these classes, deserves commendation for the success of this part of the program.

Mr. A. L. Fentem, principal of the High School, and Supt. J. E.
Hickman were invited guests.

FUTURE OF NATIONAL GUARD

By Adj. Gen. Chas. F. Barrett.
So far as the future of the national guard as a potential part of the military forces of the government can be foreseen at this time, there is little reason to expect any vital or far-reaching changes in the terms of the national defense act of June 3, 1915, under which our present Oklahoma national guard has been organized and is being trained and disciplined.

Certainly no other system yet suggested offers so large a degree of efficient military preparation at so small a cost or more nearly conforms to the ideals of a democracy for the security and preservation of a republican form of government.

Our people have constantly refused since the foundation of the republic to entertain the idea of a large standing army, and now, with the awful object lesson of the world war and its cost in blood and treasure before them, Americans will vie with other nations of the world in their hatred of the specter of militarism and will depend in the future upon some such system of preparedness as universal training and the national guard provisions in the national defense act.

The obvious purpose of that law
is to maintain a moderate force, thoroughly efficient, upon which the state can rely should it be necessary to call upon the military arm to assist the civil authorities in the preservation of law and order within the boundaries of the state, and the purpose of the federal government in equipping this force and furnishing funds for its training in the field is to obtain a well organized and thoroughly efficient force if emergency should arise calling for the use of state troops by the federal government.

Training Is Important.

The future of the guard seems to depend upon two factors; one is the attitude of the people toward the guard, and the other is the attitude of the war department toward the guard in supervising its affairs. If the people of this state and this country can be educated to appreciate the importance of all young men receiving military training to fit them reasonably well for active service in case of war, the guard can continue to maintain itself and continue to improve in efficiency each year. There is a growing tendency among the people of this state to adopt this attitude.

Equal responsibility rests upon the war department to protect the guard from those officers of the regular army who have no sympathy or understanding of volunteer service.

Only such army officers should be chosen to direct the training and instruction of the guard as will approach the duty with a desire to secure a complete understanding of the difficulties of national guard service, and with sufficient belief in the guard as an efficient military force to induce them to adopt a friendly attitude and work along the lines which are within the limitations of volunteer service, where conditions make that service a real sacrifice on the part of the men serving.

Guard Service Noble.

National guard officers confront problems which do not enter into the service in the regular establishment. Handling the financial affairs of a national guard company is a problem of no small importance by itself, and when there is coupled with it the difficulty of recruiting and keeping men in the organization
the burden imposed on the national guard officers is one which the army officer fails to appreciate unless he gives careful study and attention to this phase of guard service. In consequence he fails to get into sympathy with problems which have a direct bearing on the military training of the command, because much time is required for these local administration matters.

That a man should serve his country in time of war is noble, brave and patriotic, but that a man should properly prepare himself in time of peace to serve in war, is all of these things and more. It is noble with a nobility that is real, not ideal. It is brave with a bravery that assumes in time of unemotional peace many burdens, among them that of bearing the lack of appreciation of those who do not consider military preparation or training necessary.

No Slackers in Guard.

Oklahoma new national guard is not made up of "slackers" or those who sought to escape their duty in the great war. Its officers and its rank and file originally were those above and below the draft age, or in the exempted classes, and they joined the guard in the hope that through that service they might find a short cut to the war. During that time and before the regiments were accepted, the companies in the Second and Third regiments had given up an average of twenty-five per cent of their enlisted membership to the federal forces. Later, when the draft ages were extended, there was a veritable stampede of officers and men to the training schools and the cantonments, in an eager desire to prepare themselves for overseas service.

It is a source of pride to all our citizens that Oklahoma has been singularly free from the riots and disorders which have occurred in other states and too much credit cannot be given for this happy result to the law-abiding character of our laboring classes, the general fairness of employers and the spirit of comity and co-operation that exists between the organizations of capital and of labor in Oklahoma;

but a fair share of credit is also due to the liberal recognition in our state constitution and our laws of the rights of labor and to the maintenance of a just and equitable policy in the enforcement of laws that affect the rights and well-being of both the employers and employed.

That we have been free from disturbances that menace the public peace makes it none the less necessary to maintain an efficient national guard, which can be called upon,
not to settle disputes between employer and employee, but to assist the civil authorities in upholding and enforcing the laws against all disturbances, should it ever become necessary.

Efficient Peace Officers.

The Oklahoma national guard and its meager equipment had been requisitioned on many occasions in the early days as first aid to some stricken community when deadly cyclones or fire and flood had devastated towns and destroyed for the time being the orderly processes of civil law and life.

In the instances in which it has been called to the aid of the civil power of the state, it was able to restore the peace and uphold the majesty of the law without bloodshed and with credit to the organization.

The ranks of the Oklahoma national guard are filled from the mass of the people, without class and without distinction. It is thoroughly representative of the patriotic spirit and democratic Americanism that distinguished our armies on the battlefields in France and the new guard taking up the duties and responsibilities of the service, stands ready to emulate the glorious record of the old guard by meeting
the demands of the future with an unswerving devotion to duty and unflinching loyalty to our country and its flag.

Oklahoma is now in the forefront of the states in the number and efficiency of its national guard. The soldierly quality and high purpose of its enlisted and official personnel has won military praise from army officers qualified to judge, and with such officers and men the military department of the state feels confident of the future and secure in the belief that our national guard may be relied upon to perform its duty in every emergency that may confront the state.

Boy's Devotion to Memory of Mother Leads Him Into Trouble With Sweetheart

STRANGE SITUATION IN "BILL APPERSON'S BOY" GIVES JACK PICKFORD ROLE OF UNUSUAL KIND.

His staunch devotion to the memory of his dead mother is the force which leads Buddy Apperson to break with his father in "Bill Appersson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, starting next Thursday. In this picture Mr. Pickford plays a Blue Ridge Mountain lad, the son of Bill Apperson, a lovable old mountaineer.

Some years before the opening of the picture Bill Apperson's wife died.
Both father and son revere her memory. Sundays, on their way home from the little church, they pause to doff their hats and stand silently for a moment beside the grave of the beloved wife and mother.

Buddy Resents a Stepmother.
But now creeps in another influence. Bill Apperson is lonely. He knows that he and Buddy would be more comfortable under the hand of a woman. One day as Buddy is out with his gun he is told in an in-sultative way by a member of the Yarnton family that his father is paying too much attention to "women." Buddy resents the insult, and whips the young man who was the author of it.

At home he is told by his father that the latter intends to be married to "one of the Hansons up Black-fern Mountain way." Then Bill Ap-persson asks his son if he will not be willing to accept the prospective step-mother as a mother in fact, call her such. To this Buddy will not agree. He says, "You can marry her if you want to, but she ain't my mother."

When the stepmother comes home
Buddy does not accept her graciously.
When he persists in his determination not to call her "Mother," his father cuts a stout stick and starts to give Buddy a whipping.

Jumps from Kettle to Fire.
Bill Apperson strikes but one blow and then there appears before him
the face of his first wife, as she gently drew away the stick with which he had started to whip Buddy once, years ago. Buddy, too, remembers the kindness of his real mother, and decides to leave home. A few hours after he steps from his father's house he becomes involved in the big situation of the story, and begins to need the protection of a father as never before.

There is a pretty love story in "Bill Apperson's Boy," telling how Buddy courted Martha Yarnton, and how his affection for her led him into the crisis, which came on the night he left his father's house.

BETTER COTTON WITH CARE IN SEED CHOICE

By the Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Better cotton through careful seed selection was promised to growers by E. C. Ewing in a paper delivered today before the World Cotton Conference.

Tracing the growth of cotton experiments by the Department of Agriculture for the last ten years
Mr. Ewing showed that staple cotton developed by selection has evidenced marked improvement in grade and has withstood more easily the attacks of the boll weevil. The best results he declared had been obtained from seed of the Express variety which fruits early and has a high lint percentage.

Hybrid strains of cotton produced by cross seeds with the Express variety have shown excellent results and it is by this means that the continued improvement of cotton is expected. State and government institutions are looked to to carry on the systematic improvement of cotton as the average farmer is not considered equipped to produce dependable seed.

Seed stock of the average grower is sure to become contaminated when a variety is widely cultivated.
It was pointed out and it is in this connection that well organized seed farms can perform valuable service.
By maintaining the purity of the seeds by selection and isolation the seed farms can render available to the farmers adequate supplies of seed as needed from time to time.
Unless there is a source for pure seed or an improved variety the growers' stock must necessarily deteriorate.

But through the work of seed farms and experimental stations in the care of the standard varieties
and the development of new seeds,
Mr. Ewing predicts that substantial benefits to the industry will be continuously forthcoming.

WHY OWEN IS FAVORITE SON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Under the heading of "Favorite Sons," the Boston Traveler contains the following:

"It may be news to some out-landers to know that the bright and particular diadem star among Uncle Sam's all-star galaxy of forty-eight stars—count 'em—is Oklahoma, of whom 'twas written, 'Oklahoma or bust.'"

It is no secret out there that Bob, officially Robert Latham Owen, is her favorite son. Robert starts out with what looks like invincible armor in the form of his pedigree.

Oklahoma hasn't been married long enough to have a favorite son old enough to be her favorite, so Robert allowed himself to be adopted.

Now, get this straight. He is the Owen from whom Garry Owen was written!

He's American.

His father was the famous Robert Latham Owen, who was president of the old Virginia & Tennessee railroad; his father was an absolute Gael. He was of aborigine Scotch (Robert) Irish (Latham) and Welsh (Owen) stock, and at times showed all the sterling traits of the three—Canny, belligerent and, my land, stubborn. He chose a real thoroughbred Indian girl as his bride, Nar-cissa Chisholm, a Cherokee, whose family chose the good old Scottish name of Chisholm for their own.

Is it to be wondered that our hero, Oklahoma's favorite son, early quite easily and totally showed the other kids, so history reads, that he was the peer of them in every way? They say he was a wonder with his fists in school.
Likewise in college, Washington &
Lee, where he got his degree when 22.

He early began preparing for the presidency by being in succession a teacher, an editor, a lawyer, a banker and a merchant. He acquired much enterprise from all connections, and was enabled to buy a tourist's ticket to Oklahoma when it was decided to give the wildcatters a chance at the oil wells.

Meteorite Career.

His career in Oklahoma parallels that of the state—meteoric.

In 1892 he became a member of the national democratic committee, when only 36 years old, and at once became one of the big wigs. He drew that masterly platform of 1896, when McKinley was elected.

He is one of the senators and favorite sons who has a religious belief, being an ardent Episcopalian, and one of his achievements is in reeling the 39 articles of belief backwards.

He's a Mixer.

Is he a mixer? Well, moderately
so. For instance, he's one of them camel milk drinkers known as the Shriners. He wears a 32nd degree charm on the end of his watch chain

is a K. T., an Elk, a Moose, a Woodman and A. M. and an L.L.D. and yet he never missed the keyhole.

It was on a bright December day, 12 years ago, that Oklahoma's legislature, by unanimous vote, sent him to the United States senate, where he has remained as official representative of the Irish, the Scotch, the Welsh, the Indians and the L.L.D.'s. He is president of the National Popular Government League, advocates the I. and R. short ballot, rural credits, preferential ballot and most anything in the reform line. He also has helped out as the democratic senate big noise in the committee of banking and currency appropriations, Indian affairs, public health, national quarantine against republicans, territories and woman suffrage.

Now that you know why he is great, and have, no doubt, some Oklahoma gusher stock, you may understand why Robert Latham Owen basks in the sunlight as Oklahoma's favorite son.

BASEBALL IN ADA? WE SHOULD SAY SO!

MEETING OF BOOSTERS LAST NIGHT DECIDES TO ORGANIZE PERMANENT ASSOCIATION.

An aggregation of about fourteen of the leading sports fans and "baseball" men in the lobby of the News office last evening to determine whether or not Ada should become a real baseball center and take advantage of an opportunity that has long seemed apparent.

After much discussion which at times took on the aspect of wind jamming on the part of the "baseball" men, who once played the game and seemed to think that they still knew something about it, the meeting got dead earnest and started a plan that promises to give this city a baseball park association that will mean a real ball park by the time the season opens next year, and a playing ground that will be the pride of every player and fan in the country round about.

A most desirable location is at this time available and it is the desire of the promoters of the company to get organized and get hold of the property at the earliest possible moment. A ten-year lease can be secured at what is considered by all a most reasonable figure, and the location is ideal.

A temporary organization was perfected which is to endure until all the stock is subscribed and the company ready to proceed to business. It is composed of M. O. Matthews as chairman, Bill Coffman as vice-chairman and Harmon Eby as secretary.

A subscription list is being drafted today and the soliciting committee is expected to get about the work of getting the stock subscribed at an early date, possibly tomorrow.

The soliciting committee is composed of A. M. Greer, R. W. Wells, Bill Coffman, Louis Koeber, Paul Anderson and J. M. Coleman. A special soliciting and advisory committee is composed of P. A. Norris, M. R. Chilcutt, C. H. Rives and Clyde Randall.

It was determined that the name of the organization shall be the Ada Baseball Park Association and that the capital stock shall not be less than $50,000.

While there were only fourteen citizens present, sixteen hundred dollars worth of the stock was subscribed right off the reel and all present agreed to take more if it should become necessary.

NEW YORK FACING THE STRIKE PERIL

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 14. With at least 200,000 workers either on strike or idle as the result of strikes according to union estimates, New York today viewed with increasing concern the prospect of a serious food shortage rendered imminent by the refusal last night of the striking longshoremen to return to work and the continuance of the teamsters' strike.

The only ray of hope was the announcement by President P. V. O'Connor of the International Longshoremen Association, that the various locals would take a referendum on the question of returning to work.

Virtually all of the fresh vegetables and other perishable foods are shipped here by express. The strike of longshoremen, teamsters, harbor and ferry workers, has caused much food to rot on the docks and in ships. No coal has reached here for several days.

Lions Club Holds Lunch and Very Busy Session

The Lions Club of Ada met at the Harris hotel today in its regular bi-monthly session with a splendid attendance. The luncheon was in the usual good taste of the popular manager of the Harris and a spirit of good fellowship pervaded the entire gathering throughout.

The business session was held in the parlor of the hotel immediately after the luncheon, at which several matters of importance to the business and social interests of the city were taken up and discussed.

The committee from the club which is working with the city commissioners in the matter of the proposed improvements to be made at Glenwood Park as a result of the voting bonds for that purpose, made a report.

The committee reported that they had met with the city commissioners last evening and that it was the consensus of opinion that they had better let park plans wait until the arrival of Mr. Benham, the engineer, who has volunteered to help the city design the park improvements without charge.

The secretary read a letter from the department of agriculture at Washington on the cotton situation, and in consequence the local situation was discussed at length, after which the meeting adjourned.

Deposits in State Banks of Oklahoma Are Larger By $15,000,000 Than Ever

Increase of $30,000,000 Over Amount in Vaults Four Months Ago Is Shown in Consolidated Statement Issued by Department Head.

There is more money on deposit in state banks in Oklahoma at present than at any time in the history of the state, according to figures presented in a consolidated bank statement issued by the state banking department.

The statement is based on reports of the 534 state banks at the close of business on September 12, and shows deposits on that date were $152,606,136.45. This includes certified checks, individual and time deposits and money due to banks. This is an increase of $30,000,000 over deposits on May 12. The largest amount ever reported on deposit before was in November, 1917, when the total reached $137,000,000.

This showing is considered remarkable by state banking board officials in view of the fact that none of the cotton crop has been turned into cash.

Resources of banks also show an increase of $28,000,000 over the last statement.

FARMERS AFTER EIGHT-HOUR DAY

FARMER DELEGATES AT THE LABOR CONFERENCE PUSH THEIR CLAIMS FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. -- Needs of American farmers, including recognition of the right of the farming class to remuneration on the basis of the number of hours per day of work will be laid before the national industrial conference when it reconvenes Tuesday.

O. E. Bradfute of Xenia, O., one of the farmer delegates in the public group, announced that the five farm representatives will have a resolution setting forth the views of the farmers ready for presentation when the conference resumes its sessions.

Steel Strike First.
Prior to the meeting of the full conference, however, it is expected that definite steps will be taken toward the settlement of the issue raised by the requests of the labor group that the conference appoint a committee to arbitrate in the steel strike. Action of some sort on this issue is looked for tomorrow when the conference's general or "steering committee" meets. Members of the committee who spent the weekend in New York are expected to bring back word as to whether mediation by the conference would be accepted by the United States Steel corporation.

The farmer delegates, it was said by Mr. Bradfute, do not object to the payment of wages to organized labor on the basis of an eight-hour day, but they believe that the farmers are entitled to remuneration for the longer hours of their working days.

Five Farm Delegates.
There are five representatives of the farmers in the conference, three of whom sit as members of the employer's group. The two others, including Mr. Bradfute, are members of the public group.

Several of the farmer delegates are of the opinion that a national farming conference will be called after the present industrial conference has adjourned and that settlement of the steel strike will be within the scope of the gathering now in session. However, they expect to take an active part in the discussion of the high cost of living question with the intention of showing that the blame cannot rightly be laid against the farmer.

COUNTY DEFENSE COUNCIL CALLED FOR WEDNESDAY

Through its executive committee composed of Judge Orel Busby, Supt. A. Floyd and County Attorney Wayne Wadlington, the Pontotoc County Council of Defense is called to meet in the district court room Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 2 o'clock P. M. Every member is urged by the committee to attend.

The county council is composed of W. W. Gaines, Stonebaker, Dr. T. A. Hill, Roff, D. A. Crumley, Allen, Elzie King, Francis, Clay Stevens, Oakman, I. R. Gilmore, Mrs. Byron Norrell and John Balchrop, R. F. D., Ada; Mike Derrick, I. M. King, Robt. Wimlish, J. W. Bolen and John Brown, all of Ada.

Luther Harrison and Mrs. Tom Hope, being members of the State Council of Defense, are ex-officio members of the county council.

Mr. Wadlington informed the News that this meeting should have been called some time ago, but this could not be done because the executive committee did not receive their commissions until last Sunday.

Lettish Forces Take Initiative Against Germans

By the Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14. Led by the officers after the panic that seized them when armored cars broke through the lines west of Riga, the Lettish forces re-inforced by Estonians have regained the initiative and have moved back across the Duna River, across which they fled late last week, according to advices received here from Sweden. The Lettish forces never abandoned the portion of Riga east of the river, but clung to their positions in spite of a heavy bombardment from the German-Russian army that attacked the city.

Officers of an armistice from the army of the Russian general government have been rejected. It is reported by the Lettish government. Troops are being mobilized everywhere in Livonia and the neighborhood of Riga seemingly preparatory to a struggle against the invaders who suddenly began their offensive, Oct. 8. British warships in the harbor of Riga are said to be assisting the Lettish in driving the German-Russian army back from the city.

It is announced in Berlin that measures have been taken to prevent more German soldiers from going to Courland, the center of the German-Russian government, and that all food supplies have been cut off from the troops refusing to return to Germany.

Labor Asks That The Steel Strike Be Arbitrated

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. The demands of labor that the nationwide steel strike be arbitrated was reported to the National Industrial Conference today by the steering committee of fifteen without recommendations but with the suggestion that arbitration is undertaken by the proposed committees of six, chosen by the three groups from members or non-members of the conference.

Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the committee, announced that the groups representing labor and public in the committee opposed the resolution proposing arbitration but that a majority of all the members favored it.

There was no immediate action on the report, the conference adjourning for one hour after there had been a sharp debate over interpretation of the rules.

NEWSPRINT PAPER WILL BE MADE FROM STRAW

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 14. That newsprint paper will have to be made from the straw of wheat and other grains in a few years if the destruction of Canadian pulpwood forests continues at its present rate, was the assertion of C. Price-Green of Toronto, industrial commissioner of the Canadian National Railways, here to attend the exposition of Chemical Industries. The straw, he said, now is largely wasted.

"With but one-fiftieth of the world's population, the United States consumes one-half of the world's production of paper," he said. "At the present rate of consumption and destruction by fire, insects and fungus growths, one is forced to the conclusion that the time is not far distant when a substitute for spruce in the making of newsprint paper will have to be found, and one of the most likely sources of supply is to be found in the vast quantities of straw from the grain-growing areas which, at the present time, is being wasted."

In a town in Oklahoma one thousand men have signed an agreement to wear their old clothes three months longer on account of the H. C. L. A. thousand men in Lynn are doing the same thing without signing.—Lynn Item.

PRESIDENT NOT MAKING RAPID IMPROVEMENT

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. President Wilson's condition was generally good today, although he did not have a restful night, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians this morning.

The bulletin issued at 12:15 P. M. follows:

"The President did not have a restful night last night. His general condition, however, is good. As noted yesterday, his temperature, pulse, respiration, heart action and blood pressure are normal. Signed: Dr. Henson, Ruffin and Stitt."

LOUIS DRUMMOND IS PERMANENTLY INJURED

P. T. Drummond of East Main street, has returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he went to visit his son, Louis, who is confined in an army hospital near that place. Louis, whom most of the citizens of Ada know, was wounded in one of the battles in France, receiving a shrapnel wound in one arm. He has been in the hospital for a year or more.

Mr. Drummond states that the limb will be stiff permanently and a bit shorter than the other. Otherwise it is thought the wound will leave him in good health and will in no wise shorten his days. There is no indication as to the time he will be brought home.

AIR RACE ENTERS FINAL PHASE TODAY

FLYERS FATIGUED AND SHOW LESS ENTHUSIASM OVER RETURN FLIGHT THAN AT FIRST.

By the Associated Press.
MINNEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 14. With twelve of the sixty-two original starters safely across the continent and preparing to start the return flight, the first lap of the army air service trans-continental race between Minneola and San Francisco, entered its final phase today.

Only two of the fifteen original San Francisco starters remained to check in at Minneola. Five already have arrived and the other eight were forced out along the route by accidents. The two remaining flyers are Major J. C. Barthol, who spent last night at Rochester, N. Y., and Lieut. P. J. Richter, who stopped over at Cleveland.

The contestants who finished the first lap at Minneola displayed little enthusiasm for the return flight. All were severely fatigued by the trip east, which was made under trying weather conditions and several expressed the belief that no practical purpose would be served by continuing the races. All stated they have contemplated starting back if it is possible to get their planes in condition within the 96 hours limit set by the air service.

BOMB MAKERS ARE FACING ARREST

OFFICERS SAY THEY HAVE THE CHIEF TERRORISTS OF THE COUNTRY IN NET OF LAW.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 14. Military authorities at Gary, Ind., announced today that they hope to have the manufacturers of the Glimbel and other bombs which have started the country in the past year under arrest within a few hours.

Secret service men said they knew the names, habits and manufacturing methods of the individual who has made most of these bombs. They announced also that they had discovered a plot to assassinate the mayor of Gary. They have traced the printing of Red circulars to Indianapolis. They also said they had arrested the man who blew up the entrance of the Chicago post office a year ago.

Premature announcement in a Chicago paper this morning of some features of the Gary story, military authorities there said, had partly thwarted their plans for cleaning out what they believe is one of the central committees of dynamiters in this country.

MRS RANCE JONES FINED IN TWO CASES

Mrs. Rance Jones was arraigned before police court this morning on two cases wherein she was charged with selling Jamaica ginger.

Wm. Underwood testified that he bought the intoxicants from the defendants on last Friday and again on Saturday.

Policeman Joe Foster testified that he searched the Jones home on North Townsend avenue where he saw Wm. Underwood. He stated further that he captured a jug of Jamaica ginger.

The defense introduced no testimony.

Mayor Kitchens assessed a fine and costs of $26.25 in each case. The defendants appealed to the county court.

Brimming Bowl of Wets Is Only 100 Days Away

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. Constitutional prohibition is now less than 100 days away and liquor dealers owing large stocks of bonded or other wet goods are impatiently awaiting the hoped for ending of wartime prohibition so they may dispose of their holdings before the constitutional drought renders it impossible.

The situation at this time is:

First--War-time prohibition can be ended by presidential proclamation when the war is over, i. e., when the peace treaty is ratified and when the country's armed forces are demobilized.

Second--The prohibition enforcement act, which has passed both houses of congress, does not intend the war-time prohibition and contains nothing to prevent lifting of the ban.

Third--The resolution of Representative Rainey, Illinois, to have congress declare the war ended, is not expected to get far. Attorney General Palmer has declared the end of the war will come when the treaty is signed.

Fourth--It is pointed out that the president can hardly issue a proclamation declaring certain conditions exist when they do not exist.

Fifth--It was reported today that pressure is being brought on various democratic senators who have "wet affiliations" to vote for the peace treaty with the threat that otherwise war-time prohibition will not be lifted even if there is opportunity. The threats, it was said, would be without effect.

Did You Ever Contemplate
What You Could Do With the Sum of $75,000,000?

By Frank E. Burkhalter

Ever sit down in one of your idle moments and contemplate what could be done with $75,000,000 in cash, or what you would do with it in the event you should suddenly come into possession of it through the discovery of a gold mine, a diamond bed, or more like it, an oil gusher upon your property?

But sum of money, this, if Father Adam in his prime had learned the gospel of thrift and practiced it consistently by depositing $10,000 annually in the bank of Eden, followed the commandments of God so that he would not have tasted death, and had kept up that saving and depositing habit until today, his account would still be far below $75,000,000, and he would have to continue to save his earnings and bank them at the rate of $10,000 per year until January 1, 3419, before he could attain this goal. This is true, of course, provided the Bank of Eden did not pay interest on deposits, and so far as history records this was not done.

But of vastly greater significance than how long it would require to accumulate $75,000,000 is what this money will accomplish if invested in the advancement of the kingdom of God in the world and that is what the Baptists 75 Million Campaign proposes to do with it.

Big Task Is Confronted

Too big a sum to be asked at one time, did you say? It is a big sum, but not too large to meet the urgent world needs which the Baptists must help supply, nor is it in excess of what the Baptists can do during the next five years if they once get an adequate vision of their opportunity and the world call to them.

And what will this money do during the five-year program over which its payment and expenditure will be extended?

Briefly stated, it will help build up the waste places at home, strengthen the hands of the missionaries in the foreign fields that are occupied already, make possible a large part in the spiritual reconstruction of Europe and the opening up of mission work in the needy fields in other parts of the world which have not been entered before. Then it will strengthen the Christian educational institutions so as to enable them to do a still larger work in furnishing the world with Christian leaders, both men and women, for the critical times through which the world is passing, orphanages will be enlarged so as to make it possible to care for the 5,000 fatherless and motherless children who are crying for admission, and Christian hospitals will be enlarged and better equipped for rendering to the sick and suffering the aid and relief for which they are calling, while the duty of caring for the aged ministers, who have spent their lives in sacrificial service for the Master without an opportunity to save anything from their meager salaries as a dependence for old age will be discharged.

Get New Sense of Responsibility

During the crisis through which America has passed during the last three years there has come to all the people a fuller sense of their civic, social and religious responsibility to their fellows everywhere, those within the homeland and those living in the most remote quarters of the globe. We have come to realize that the foreigners in our midst, the Mexicans on the frontier, the Indians on the reservations, the Negroes scattered throughout our states, and the men in every corner of the world—Chinaman, Jap, Hottentot and Bolshevik—regardless of their race, color or political views are our brethren, and to them we owe the love and obligation which brotherhood entails.

So in the program of this campaign a large place has been given to the spiritual reconstruction of Europe, the planting of the gospel of freedom in those devastated countries which need Jesus Christ and healing for the mind, body and soul which He exemplified while in the world and the continuation of the work in which He committed to His church when He ascended unto the Father. Six million dollars of the sum that is sought in this campaign has been set aside for reconstruction work in Europe and a commission composed of prominent Baptist ministers, missionaries and laymen is now in Europe looking over the various fields there with a view to determining just where this money can be most wisely expended.

Other Fields Provided For

And what of the other mission fields of the world? They are not to be overlooked in this campaign. The sum of $15,000,000 for the next five years or an average of $3,000,000 a year, will be expended on them in sending more missionaries, more Christian teachers, doctors, and nurses, in providing comfortable and sanitary homes for the missionaries, houses of worship for struggling congregations, Christian schools for the education of the young people and the training of Christian workers of all classes, and hospitals for the relief of human suffering.

Probably you are accustomed to thinking of China as a vast aggregation of handymen, proprietors of chop suey restaurants and coolies; of Japan as so many almond-eyed brown men, smooth but unprincipled designers upon their less aggressive neighbors; upon Brazil as a vast collection of dark peoples of the tropics who are all rich in their place but who have no legitimate claim upon the rest of the world; or upon Mexico as one big family of banditti, "greasers," and makers of hot tamales, chile and revolvers.

If so, you are not informed. Out of the ignorance, superstition and backwardness of China there have come some of the finest Christians the world has ever known. The light and love of the gospel have made new creatures of them; life has taken on an entirely different aspect in regard to everything since God came into their souls; they have espoused the Christian religion under circumstances that required heroic sacrifice; and they have begun the service of God in a manner that would make many an American Christian ashamed of himself were all the facts known. These Chinese consecrate their money as well as their lives to God, once they have accepted the gospel. They give freely to the support of the Christian institutions of every character in their own country and are helping to send these blessings to the peoples of other lands. And what is true of the native Christians of China may be said, also, of those in Japan, Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Africa, Panama, Cuba, Italy, Russia, Bohemia and wherever else the gospel has been carried to the people. Surely money invested in the redemption of people who contribute so much to the kingdom of God is wisely expended.

What Year's Labor Produced

Indicative of the visible results obtained by the 316 missionaries maintained by the Southern Baptist convention on foreign fields last year, 5,655 baptisms were reported, 41 new churches constituted, two churches became self-supporting, a total of $173,372 was contributed to various purposes by the native Christians, 129,235 treatments were given by the medical missionaries, human suffering was relieved in other ways, the seed of the gospel was sown in many places and the borders of Christ's kingdom were extended a little further in all the lands which are occupied. But when it is recalled that these missionaries are laboring among practically half the people of the globe the inadequacy of their numbers can be readily realized. The Foreign Mission Board needs to employ 200 additional missionaries at once.

Home Missions Gets $12,000,000

But as important as is foreign missions, it has no monopoly on the fund that is being raised by the Baptist 75 Million Campaign. A total of $12,000,000 has been apportioned to home missions, which, briefly stated, includes the mission work in Panama and Cuba; reaching the foreigners in the homeland with the gospel; caring for the needs of the million Mexicans in the Southwest; uplifting the Negroes working among the Indians, many of whom are located in the Southwest; the maintenance of schools in the mountainous territory of the South where there have been but very few public high schools; helping the weak churches in the remote districts and in the large centers of population in securing houses of worship; evangelizing the masses in the congested cities, and enlisting them in the work of the kingdom; and various other phases of work of an interstate character which can be done more advantageously by the Home Mission Board than by the several state mission boards.

13,000,000 Are Not Christians

To the task of state missions the sum of $11,000,000 has been apportioned in this campaign. Few persons who have not had an opportunity to make an intimate study of this situation have any comprehension of the enormity of the need here. Accurate information just compiled at the headquarters of the campaign reveals the fact that there are approximately 13,000,000 white people of 12 years of age and older in the territory of the Southern Baptist convention who are not Christians. Reaching the people at our own doors should certainly receive earnest and immediate consideration, the leaders in the campaign urge.

$20,000,000 Goes to Education

With the exception of foreign missions, the largest apportionment that has been made by the campaign to any single interest goes to Christian education, this interest drawing $20,000,000 during the next five years, or $4,000,000 per year. There are 132 Baptist academies ies, colleges, universities, seminaries and training schools in the South and all of them are in need of larger equipment, and the more advanced institutions more especially, of an adequate endowment to enable them to perform their duty to the 18,000 young men and women who attend them annually.

5,000 Orphans Ask for Home

Baptists have sought to discharge their obligation to the fatherless and motherless children of the South by the establishment of orphan homes in fifteen states. Approximately 5,000 orphan children are being sheltered, fed, clothed, educated and trained for life and services in these institutions and a vast service to society is thus being rendered, but the pathetic side of the situation is that fully 5,000 more orphan children are on the waiting lists of these institutions, anxious to be admitted to the privileges there, but the lack of room is such that the doors must remain closed to them until the homes are enlarged. No more Christly task confronts Southern Baptists than the enlargement of their orphanages to the point where homes and practical Christian training can be provided for all orphan children who desire to enter, regardless of creed or sect. To make a worthy start in the accomplishment of this task during the next five years the sum of $4,700,000 has been apportioned by the campaign and every cent of this will be needed.

Plan Relief of Human Suffering

Fourteen hospitals operated by Baptists in the Southern states find themselves unable to meet the demands made upon them because of inadequate equipment and facilities. The demand for charity work is very, very great and will always be so, and it is work of this character that probably needs most to be done because of the inability of the sufferers to go elsewhere. Thousands of men, women and children have been relieved of suffering and placed upon the road to health and larger usefulness and happiness for themselves and the world through the instrumentalities of these hospitals and the sum of $1,800,000 apportioned from the campaign for the strengthening of these institutions will be expended in a manner that will help those in charge do the work which Christ loved so much to do while on earth in giving sight to the blind and hearing to the deaf and enabling the lame to walk.

To succeed in raising this huge sum of money for purely spiritual purposes will make it necessary that Baptists have a larger vision than they have had before; larger realization of the world's need of the gospel and of the service which Christ commanded His children to give to their fellowmen; a deeper spirit of prayer and consecration; a readier spirit of sacrifice; and a deeper love for the souls of men. There is no question about the ability of Baptists to do the job. They have been wonderfully favored with material blessings for many years. It is only a question of their will to do the thing.

Newspaper Borrowers.

A newspaper publisher whose sheet had quite a poor subscription list, used to justify the value of his advertising space on the ground that a great many people borrowed the paper and so read it without paying for it.

As far as his books went, he could make poor showing. A national advertising agency would not have been impressed by an audit of his accounts. Yet he had a perfectly good claim. He was getting out a good sheet and it was safe to assume that about everyone in town read it. If any business concern wished to interest the people of that town, his paper was the only way to reach them, and it would do the job for them very efficiently.

The number of people who habitually borrow newspapers is large. Some men make an excuse to drop into a store where a local paper is lying around the counter, and they carefully peruse it. The clerks are onto the game and snicker a little. But as the man may be a good customer, they are glad to pass the paper on.

Many newspapers go the rounds of several families. The old folks will read it, then pass it on to their married children, or give it to the hired man's family or the next door neighbor.

Now as far as the lender goes, that is all kindness of heart. But it does not solve the problem of producing a newspaper that shall adequately represent the community and which will be able to make a clean circulation statement, based on the actual extent to which it is read. It is not a subject that needs more extended treatment but perhaps some people on seeing this suggestion, may realize that they have not done quite their share in support of one of the town's institutions.—Sherman Democrat.

KIDS JOIN FORCES TO PROTECT JUDGE

JUDGE LINDSEY SHALL NOT GO TO JAIL, SAY THE YOUTH OF THE NATION—THEY ARE UNITING.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 13.—Boys throughout the nation are uniting to say: "Judge Lindsey shall not go to jail."

They're fighting to establish this a legal precedent.

When a boy tells his secrets to peat what the lad had told him in a juvenile court judge that confidence shall not be betrayed.

The supreme court of the United States will soon pass on the law. And as the boy told on the witness stand, he asserted that the relation between boys' Brotherhood Republic in Chicago and the juvenile judge were, are raising funds to carry on the legal fight.

This all dates back to the Wright murder trial in Denver.

Neal Wright's father drank and abused his family.

Neal defended his mother and the father threatened to come back and "clean out the house."

He went for more whiskey. He returned and found the door locked. He banged on the door and demanded admittance.

Sometime later and Wright fell dead on his own doorstep.

"I Killed Him," Says Mother— "No, I Did," Says Neal.

Neal's mother hysterically screamed against the sentence wrote a scathing

ing opinion in which he asserted it would have been highly opposed to public policy, decency and justice for Lindsey to have violated the Wright boy's confidence in court.

One of the four who voted to uphold the sentence was an open and avowed enemy of Lindsey. He could have been challenged had he sat on a jury in any case involving Lindsey, because of his attacks on the judge for his "Boasts of the Jungle" stories exposing Colorado's political rottenness.

Lindsey asked for a rehearing, which was denied.

He then appealed to the U. S. court before which the case now rests.

Neal Wright, 12 when he says he shot his father, and now 16—has made a good record as a soldier in France. He enlisted in the army despite his youth.

His mother is happily remarried. And the boys of America remembering Boyland's primal law of "Thou shalt not squeal," are contributing pennies and nickels and quarters to a fund that will carry on the fight before the highest court in the land for the juvenile judge's right to respect the confidence of a kid.

This fund is being collected by the Boys' Brotherhood Republic, 1829 Republic Building, Chicago.

Judge Lindsey repeats that if the supreme court upholds the Denver verdict he'll never pay the fine—he'll go to jail.

Germany's Hymn of Hate Toward France Pathetic

BY CARL D. GROAT.
Berlin.—Something akin to a "hymn of hate" is rising up in Germany against France.

So far it hasn't found emphatic expression in the press. But, every move on the part of the entente which displeases Germany is generally attributed to the influence of Clemenceau and Tardieu. And there is an undercurrent of talk which suggests that some day, not in this generation, probably, but later—there will be new trouble in which Germany and France will again fly at each others' throats.

Theodor Wolff, editor of the Tageblatt, a man of sane judgment and mild language, took occasion in a recent issue of his paper to give France a lecture on neighborliness. While he didn't exactly sing a hymn of hate, he did point out quite significantly that, even though France had been sinned against, she might stupidly stir up new trouble for herself if she did not take a new tack.

Hushes Army Publicity.
And from quite another source—the conservative Deutsche Tageszeitung, an organ of the "right" side comes the thought that Germany some day wants to use her army as an "influence" on the outer policy of the nation.

While the writer carefully avoided all appearance of trying to suggest dodging the peace treaty terms—and in fact wrote to the contrary—his editorial gives the impression that silence as to the army is necessary lest the entente watch too closely what is going on.

The writer says that many people want to see the army so built up that virtually all of its personnel can serve later as officers or instructors. But such public discussion, says the Tageszeitung, only hinders the building of the new

army because it makes the entente more attentive to what is going on.

HAPSBURG LIEBE WROTE "BILL APPERSON'S BOY."
Hapsburg Liebe, who under the original title, "That Woman," wrote "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, beginning Thursday, is one of the rising magazine writers of the day, who specializes in tales of the Kentucky hill folks. In this story Mr. Pickford has the part of a mountaineer lad found under suspicious circumstances in the home of his sweetheart at night, and freed by her sensational testimony.

KENTUCKY HILL BOYS FIGHT DUEL WITH FISTS

A rough and tumble fight between two lusty young mountaineers is one of the exciting features of "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, commencing Thursday. Mr. Pickford has the part of a lad who is defending the honor of his father, and he goes at the other boy, with a bully much larger than himself, with a vengeance. They fight all over a piece of high ground and finally roll down a steep embankment before Buddy Apperson (Jack Pickford) deals the knockout.

The Buick Steering Gear

The Buick steering gear has been designed to combine the attributes of safety and ease of operation.

The principal advantages are entire relief from road shocks being transmitted through the steering mechanism, and ability to follow the tracks in mud or sand without wearisome maneuvering and without the danger of jumping the ruts. So that the easy handling of the Buick steering mechanism will be appreciated by all drivers.

As a result of this design, the factor of safety in Buick steering gears is very high. And because of the leverage provided by the the large steering wheel, anti-friction bearings and the positive lubrication of every part, the car may be operated for many hours at a time without fatigue to the driver.

WORK WAS THE QUESTION

In the Chicago railroad yards some I. W. W. wrote upon the side of a box car the inscription:

No beer no work!

When the car reached Milwaukee a brakeman wrote under the first inscription, the following:

No work, no pay!

En route to Madison another workman added this:

No pay, no eat!

In the Madison yards a maintenance man wrote the final chapter:

No eat, no live!

Politicians may screech, preachers may preach, economists may write, sociologists may slum and their combined output will add nothing to the dicta:

No beer, no work!

No work, no pay!

No pay, no eat!

No eat, no live!

Than work there is no other panacea. Work is man's natural state. Every normal, healthy man works, whether he has to or not. The world lives on production. Hence work must lend itself to production. The man who has an idea of a time when men shall live without work is on a par with the man who proposes to give everybody something without taxing anything from anybody.

A photograph of the side of that old box car with its philosophic inscriptions would become a national treasure if hung conspicuously within the commons of every American city.—Wisconsin State Journal.

MR. PENROSE TESTIFIES

In his latest preaching on the duties of congress, Senator Penrose corroborates in a surprising way the contentions of Democratic leaders—including President Wilson.

"Taxes ought to be largely reduced as soon as possible," says Senator Penrose. "How far they can be reduced depends on whether the congress can get out of the wasteful habit of improvident expenditures."

Is it likely that the republican "boss" had in mind, when he uttered this truth, the numerous republican "investigating" committees which have been roaming about the United States and Europe to gather campaign material while they squandered time and frittered away the public's money? Reduction of expenditures must precede decrease in taxes. So long as the republican "investigators" continue to spend, the people must continue to pay.

"On tax questions," Senator Penrose declares, in this same statement, "the republicans could not command a united majority, although nominally they have a majority of two in the senate."

Is there any question—except that of embarrassing President Wilson—upon which the republicans can muster a majority? They have thus far lacked even practical unanimity as to any proposition submitted to them, either by President Wilson or their own leaders. Even Mr. Penrose has failed to bring harmony between the senate and the house, or between the individual republicans of either body.

If the republican majority in congress continues to procrastinate in legislating for the soldiers, the latter will become eligible for old-age pensions before anything is done for them.

After having spent three months in a public exhibition of their discord, republicans of the house have decided to have another quarrel in private at the next caucus, November 10.

The republican majority in the senate filibustered against prosperity last spring and is now filibustering against peace.

The State Press

Oklahoman: A suit to test the constitutionality of the war-time prohibition act has been filed in Louisville, Ky. The Kentucky colonels seem to think that "war is hell."

Latimer County News-Democrat: when we think of the many rotten eggs Senator Jim Reed has been throwing at President Wilson for the last three years, we cannot get very

mad at the Ardmore boys for throwing a few at him. We like it, too, because the eggs were rotten. A perfectly good egg is too valuable to waste on Jim Reed.

Shawnee News: Have you stopped to analyze the entrants in the great congressional handicap which is to be run off in the fifth district in less than ten days now? There is one outstanding feature in both the democratic and republican lists, males and females, and that is that each and every one of the lot has held au elective or appointive office at some time since statehood or has been a candidate for one. In view of this fact it is hardly proper to refer to this as an amateur race, for it is strictly professional throughout, for everyone has been a paid player.

Miami News: If Mexico has instructed troops to fire on American aviators flying across the border, she is acting within her rights. So is the man who tampers with a hornet's nest.

Oklahoman: If the anti-treaty senators thought they had enough votes to adopt their amendments to the peace treaty they would have the voting over in a hurry. But since they know they can't muster a sufficient number, they proceed to kill time.

Wapukucka Press: Republican newspapers which oppose the league of nations made laborious analysis of the senate's first test vote on the treaty. But these interpretations all ignored the real point—which was that Senator Lodge and his associates feared to "go to bat" when they were called.

Ardmore Statesman: Up in the first congressional district of this state, a woman has announced as a candidate for congress before the democratic voters. As far as made public her claims are based on the fact that she is a woman, and that there are enough women voters, if they would all vote for her, to give her the nomination. The only published account of her record that we have seen is that she was a "police matron" in Oklahoma City for several years. As we understand the duties of a police matron, they are hardly of a character to recommend one possessed of them as "good congressional timber." However, let us wait and see what the women of the fifth district think about it.

The Divorce Mill

Mrs. Mary A. McClure has filed suit against her husband, Newt McClure, for divorce.

In her petition the plaintiff alleges that she and the defendant were married many years ago and that a decree of divorce was granted them by former District Judge Tom D. McKeown. They were remarried on April 23, 1914. Four children have been born to the union. The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant has always been cruel to her, and that their second marriage was consummated only after the defendant had promised to be good and kind. Since their marriage, however, the petitioner states that the defendant has been guilty of habitual drunkenness; that he has abused her wilfully, maliciously and cruelly; that he is extremely cruel and abusive to the children; that he has squandered both his money and hers, dissipated their property and brought them almost to want; that he purchased with her money an automobile, and forced her to give him a bill of sale to same; that he is now in the city jail as the result of a drunken spree.

Wherefore the plaintiff asks for a temporary restraining order to keep him from coming home; to cancel the bill of sale to the car, obtained under duress; to force defendant to bear the expense of the divorce suit; to grant plaintiff a date; plaintiff says that he does not know the whereabouts of the defendant and has not known since about the first of June, 1919.

Plaintiff says that he is entitled

Beauty doctoring has become a recognized profession, and the use of lotions, cleansing creams, and many other toilet preparations, is an established habit with thousands of women. There is no getting away from the fact that complexion and hair respond to the care and treatment that counteract the ravages of sun, wind, work and, to a great extent, time. Those who have most successfully combated these enemies of beauty say that it is the little time (say a quarter of an hour) that is given EVERY DAY to the complexion or the hair, the regular biyearly visit to the dentist, whether there is an apparent trouble with the teeth or not, and the ability to avoid worry, that has kept them looking young and fair for many more years than their negligent sisters.

Care of the Hands.
Hands get considerable rough treatment, but some women manage to keep them slightly notwithstanding the housework they must do. The homely and inexpensive oils, acids and powders that anyone has will answer as well as any others in the care of the hands.

First of all the hands must be thoroughly cleaned before treatment for any defect is applied to them.

A scouring brush should be used with a mild soap and lukewarm water every night, and apply it vigorously, drying the hands thoroughly; use a teaspoonful of borax to a basin of water.

Any simple soap may be used, but strong kinds should be avoided. A nail brush is necessary, and an inexpensive one will be as cleansing as a costly one.

defendant from coming about the place and molesting either the plaintiff or her children.

E. S. Hatfield represents the plaintiff.

A divorce case has been filed by J. A. Book against Alice Book. The facts set forth in the petition being somewhat unusual, we print the document almost in its entirety.

"Comes now the plaintiff and represents to this Honorable Court that he is a resident of said state and county and has resided in said state for more than one year past;

And for his cause of action plaintiff says that he was married to the defendant on or about the 4th day of December, 1918, in the state of Texas, and lived with her as husband and wife until about the middle of May, 1919, when he and the defendant separated and have not lived together since said divorce suit; to grant plaintiff a date; plaintiff says that he does not know the whereabouts of the defendant and has not known since about the first of June, 1919.

Plaintiff says that he is entitled

must be lathered, and then the brush rubbed over the soap and the palms and backs scrubbed, brushing so the skin will not be irritated, yet sufficiently brisk to take out the dirt.

To Whiten Hands.
A very good bleaching paste can be used at night, avoiding the nails, with a pair of kid gloves worn over it.

Snowy hands are produced by dipping them in almond oil; let them absorb all the oil, and then dip them in French chalk and wear a pair of loose old gloves that night. Another plan is to wash the hands in peroxide of hydrogen, letting it dry on them, and then rub on cold cream and wear old kid gloves. In the morning wash off with lemon juice, vinegar or cider, hot water, and then a disappearing cream.

Stained Hands.
Cream of tartar will remove dye stains from the hands. Rub with soap and apply the powder thoroughly.

His Majesty King Cotton

King Cotton sits on his throne and reigns with greater majesty than ever before. He is scattering his wealth hither and thither. He is making the hovel grow into a castle. He is changing the two wheel cart into a high powered automobile. He is discarding the calico for the silks and satins. He lays aside the cotton jeans for broadcloth and worsteds.

Pontotoc County's Cotton

Pontotoc County has prospects for a bumper Cotton crop. Already the white fleece is rolling into Ada, Stonewall, Roff, Francis, Steedman, Allen, Vanoss, and the other cotton buying towns of the county. If the crop turns out as well as we expect it to and the price stays up, it will bring to this county more than $5,000,000.

The Way to Reach this Wealth

The farmers of this county are readers and thinkers. They do not depend upon noise and glamor for their information. In the quiet of their own firesides, they study and work out their buying program. They can tell by the tone of an advertisement if the facts are stated correctly.

Wonderful Markets

This money will be spent for things worth while. Pure bred livestock, Good clothes, hardware, shoes, houses, and farming tools will be bought. The man who has something to sell, and that something is worth while, can find a way to the buying power of this county through

The Ada Weekly News

The Ada Weekly News is the only paper published in Pontotoc County with a county wide circulation. It circulates more papers than all other weekly papers combined and reaches ninety percent of the farm houses. ## Fire Protection Notice.

My attention has been called to the fact that several gas consumers in the city are using flexible hose connections on their stoves. The use of this character of connections is positively prohibited by both the State and City laws on the ground that same is very dangerous. Besides being dangerous the use of same increases insurance rates 25 cents on the $100.00 of your insurance. I expect to begin at once and will make as thorough inspection of the city as possible and those found using the above kind of connections will be ordered to discontinue the same, or else they will be dealt with to the full extent of the city ordinance in relation thereto. Respectfully,

Corn Crop This Year Three Times As Large As Last

Timely rains have done much to put the corn crop in good shape in Oklahoma, and a recent report of the state board of agriculture shows a jump ahead from 71 to 73 per cent in the promise for the year. The best growing condition is reported in the south of the state with the poorest showing from the north and northeast sections. The forecast is for 67,627,000 bushels this year, or almost three times the amount produced last year.

Due to the reviving rains during the month, the sorghums continue to make satisfactory growth and will produce fair to good crops of both grain and forage. From the condition figure of 80 per cent on October 1st, it is estimated that the yield will be 28,201,000 bushels; last year's production was 15,240,000.

The total broom corn production will be considerably greater than that of last year, although the average is estimated at several thousand acres smaller. Reports from the northwest counties are that the late crop is maturing slowly, early dwarf corn yielding well and condition good. Most of the broom factories are busy.

As a crop barley is increasing in popularity in Oklahoma, due to a reasonable trustworthiness in poor seasons and a better appreciation of its feed value. This year the average yield was 30 bushels per acre, or about 10 bushels greater than the ten year average for the state. In 1918 the yield was 16 bushels; 18 bushels in 1917; but only 12.5 bushels in 1916. In 1916, however, all grain crops in the state were low; wheat produced only 9.7 bushels per acre, corn 13.5 bushels, rye 10 bushels and grain sorghums 7 bushels.

The month generally has been one favorable for the maturing and harvesting of crops. Pastures in the north were dry, but fair in the south and other districts. Plowing for the most part has been done under difficulties, owing to the dry condition of the soil.

Hats Agree to Disagree

An almost endless number of styles, with none of them dominant as yet, characterize the display of millinery and gowns this season. The powers that be in the production of them must have agreed to disagree, for every designer appears to have operated independently of the others—in a measure. In fabrics they are of one mind, put in costumes we have widely varying silhouettes—the straight and slim from another, wide hip and crinolined effects from several. Skirts and sleeves from some authoritative houses persist in being very short—both are lengthened by others, and bodies reveal a disparity more striking than any other, going from very low necks to collars so high that they reach the ears. There is a lack of coherence in the modes, but in the wide variety offered certainly every type of face and figure can be suited.

Among the styles that have been received with enthusiasm by discriminating judges of good millinery there are many medium-sized hats. A group of four, shown above, presents widely different types, each of them having scored a success. Whatever may be the difference of opinion about shapes, designers are agreed upon the use of rich materials, and the four hats that constitute this group are fine examples of the mode.

The hat at the top has a moderately wide brim and represents the wide-brimmed class that includes many picturesque models that are very wide. This hat is of panne velvet faced with plain velvet, and is trimmed with a wreath of ostrich plumes ending in a short, drooping plume. Ostrich, curled and uncurled, is with us again in plumes big and little, long and short. It returns from a banishment that lasted several seasons.

Velvet and long napped beaver make the pretty hat with big, soft crown, at the left of the group. An embroidered pattern at the right side of the crown and a sash of narrow silk and gold ribbon around it are all that it needs for trimming.

The hat at the right is one of the smartest for a matron. It is rather intricate as to trim, and has a light draped crown—all of velvet. A ribbon is tied about the crown, ending in a bow at the front in a manner so simple and so artistic that it bespeaks the hand of an artist. Three tall, glycerined ostrich plumes are mounted at the back.

The last hat recalls the Napoleon shape and employs velvet in two colors—black on the upturned brim and silver gray on the crown. Lengthwise groups of tufts with small gray tassels between them proclaim this a member of the tailored class, with leanings in the direction of trimming.

METRO CHARTERS TRAIN FOR UNUSUAL SCENES

A special train was chartered by Metro for a series of scenes in "Blind Man's Eyes," a story of gripping realism which will be featured at the Liberty Theatre for a two-day engagement and which shows Bari Lytell in a role of unusual power.

The train, with a full crew, includes a Pullman sleeper, an observation car and a well-equipped diner. The entire company spent two days aboard while the many scenes were being "shot," making in that time a trip over two hundred miles. The train runs through beautiful California scenery—giving many views of unsurpassed magnificence and grandeur.

Film Shows "Court Day" in Hill Town One of the most picturesque scenes in "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, commencing Thursday, shows a small village in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The court house with its tall colonial columns is surrounded by the horses and the buckboards of mountaineers who have driven in for "court day." And back of all towers the great mountains, blue, mighty and serene.

Tapestries Brought High Prices.

A collection of rare and costly tapestries and furniture belonging to the estates of Augustus Knott, James Stillman, and others, was sold at the American Art galleries in New York recently, and brought a total of $57,117.50. Charles, of London, paid $9,000, the top price, for a set of four allegorical tapestries, Italian, of the sixteenth century; $6,500 for an Italian Renaissance tapestry, "Harvesting," and $5,600 for an Italian Renaissance hunting tapestry.

SENIORS OF EAST CENTRAL ENTERTAIN

Responding to the kind invitation of the Senior Class of East Central State Normal School, the faculty as the honored guests, and the student body of that institution assembled in the gymnasium last evening for two hours of pleasure and entertainment. Cordially welcomed at the door by Mr. Conn Roach, class president, and Miss Anna Weaver Jones, class sponsor, the guests were presented to those forming the receiving line; the faculty and class officers. Chairs had previously been arranged in semi-circular style, here the guests found comfortable places to visit their friends and admire the decorations. An enormous amount of fall leaves and branches had been attractively twined about the enclosure of the balcony, which when interspersed with dahlias and shasta daisies gave the appearance of a veritable forest of flowers. Green and white crepe paper draped artistically across the room added to the decorations and suggested the class colors. Candles placed among a banking of green leaves and flowers when lighted gave a most charming effect. The following program was exceptionally well rendered:

- 1. Greek Dance: Alma Mount, Mabel Clement, Carrie Roach, Corinne Moore, Faye Knotts, Thelma Moon, and Ruth Mount.
- 2. Vocal solo, "At the End of a Weary Day": Clarice Cartwright.
- 3. Reading, Negro Dialect Selection, Frances Campbell.
- 4. Vocal selection, Mrs. Ruth Carter.
- 5. Gymnastic Dance: Faye Knotts, Corinne Moore and Addie Roach.
- 6. Trouble Club: "Oh, Susanna" and "Viva La Mour": Alma Mount, Mildred York, Frances Campbell, Ophelia Gray, Dorothy Wagoner, Gervis Bills, Clarice Cartwright, Algie Brain.
- 7. Music by Schreber's Orchestra.

Immediately following the completion of the program refreshments of brick ice cream in green and white, lady fingers, and cream kisses topped with green were served by Inez Neal, Vera Lane, Savannah Keathley, Bertha Jones, Francis Campbell, Ruth Smith, and Geneva Ann Gordon. The concluding feature of the evening was a grand march led by Dr. Gordon and Miss Jones.

The decided success of the evening, pronounced by those present as the most delightful social occasion ever held by Normal students, was due to the untiring efforts of the committees, all of which were under the explicit direction of Miss Jones. The committee responsible for the attractive decorations, representing long hours of concentrated effort, was composed of Robert Wimbish, chairman, Helen Blanchard, Ruth Smith, Alta Marsh, Ralph Heard, Vera Lane, Ophelia Gray, Clarice Cartwright, J. H. Hodges, Carrie Roach, Nellie Brandon, Zella Lowe, Helen Oliphant, Bertha Jones, Maurice Gordon, Conn Roach and Viola Leonard.

The grace and rhythm displayed by the girls doing the Greek and gymnastic dances was typical of the character of the work being done in the physical training department. Miss Johnnie Anderson, who plays for these classes, deserves commendation for the success of this part of the program.

Mr. A. L. Fentent, principal of the High School, and Supt. J. E. Hickman were invited guests.

FUTURE OF NATIONAL GUARD

Adj. Gen. Chas. F. Barrett. So far as the future of the national guard as a potential part of the military forces of the government can be foreseen at this time, there is little reason to expect any vital or far-reaching changes in the terms of the national defense act of June 3, 1915, under which our present Oklahoma national guard has been organized and is being trained and disciplined.

Certainly no other system yet suggested offers so large a degree of efficient military preparation at so small a cost or more nearly conforms to the ideals of a democracy for the security and preservation of a republican form of government.

Large Standing Army Disapproved. Our people have constantly refused since the foundation of the republic to countenance the idea of a large standing army, and now, with the awful object lesson of the world war and its cost in blood and treasure before them, Americans will vie with other nations of the world in their hatred of the specter of militarism and will depend in the future upon some such system of preparedness as universal training and the national guard provisions in the national defense act.

The obvious purpose of that law is to maintain a moderate force, thoroughly efficient, upon which the state can rely should it be necessary to call upon the military arm to assist the civil authorities in the preservation of law and order within the boundaries of the state, and the purpose of the federal government in equipping this force and furnishing funds for its training in the field is to obtain a well organized and thoroughly efficient force if emergency should arise calling for the use of state troops by the federal government.

Training Is Important. The future of the guard seems to depend upon two factors; one is the attitude of the people toward the guard, and the other is the attitude of the war department toward the guard in supervising its affairs. If the people of this state and this country can be educated to appreciate the importance of all young men receiving military training to fit them reasonably well for active service in case of war, the guard can continue to maintain itself and continue to improve in efficiency each year. There is a growing tendency among the people of this state to adopt this attitude.

Equal responsibility rests upon the war department to protect the guard from those officers of the regular army who have no sympathy or understanding of volunteer service.

Only such army officers should be chosen to direct the training and instruction of the guard as will approach the duty with a desire to secure a complete understanding of the difficulties of national guard service, and with sufficient belief in the guard as an efficient military force to induce them to adopt a friendly attitude and work along lines which are within the limitations of volunteer service, where conditions make that service a real sacrifice on the part of the men serving.

Guard Service Noble. National guard officers confront problems which do not enter into the service in the regular establishment. Handling the financial affairs of a national guard company is a problem of no small importance by itself, and when there is coupled with it the difficulty of recruiting and keeping men in the organization the burden imposed on the national guard officers is one which the army officer fails to appreciate unless he gives careful study and attention to this phase of guard service. In consequence he fails to get into sympathy with problems which have a direct bearing on the military training of the command, because much time is required for these local administration matters.

That a man should serve his country in time of war is noble, brave and patriotic, but that a man should properly prepare himself in time of peace to serve in war is all of these things and more. It is noble with a nobility that is real, not ideal. It is brave with a bravery that assumes in time of unemotional peace many burdens, among them that of bearing the lack of appreciation of those who do not consider military preparation or training necessary.

Oklahoma new national guard is not made up of "slackers" or those who sought to escape their duty in the great war. Its officers and its rank and file originally were those above and below the draft age, or in the exempted classes, and they joined the guard in the hope that through that service they might find a short cut to the war. During that time and before the regiment was accepted, the companies in the Second and Third regiments had given up an average of twenty-five per cent of their enlisted membership to the federal forces. Later, when the draft ages were extended, there was a veritable stampede of officers and men to the training schools and the cantonments, in an eager desire to prepare themselves for overseas service.

It is a source of pride to all our citizens that Oklahoma has been singularly free from the riots and disorders which have occurred in other states and too much credit cannot be given for this happy result to the law-abiding character of our laboring classes, the general fairness of employers and the spirit of comity and co-operation that exists between the organizations of capital and of labor in Oklahoma; but a fair share of credit is also due to the liberal recognition in our state constitution and our laws of the rights of labor and to the maintenance of a just and equitable policy in the enforcement of laws that affect the rights and well-being of both the employers and employed.

That we have been free from disturbances that menace the public peace makes it none the less necessary to maintain an efficient national guard, which can be called upon, not to settle disputes between employer and employee, but to assist the civil authorities in upholding and enforcing the laws against all disturbers, should it ever become necessary.

Efficient Peace Officers. The Oklahoma national guard and its meager equipment had been requisitioned on many occasions in the early days as first aid to some stricken community when deadly cyclones or fire and flood had devastated towns and destroyed for the time being the orderly processes of civil law and life.

In the instances in which it has been called to the aid of the civil power of the state, it was able to restore the peace and uphold the majesty of the law without bloodshed and with credit to the organization.

The ranks of the Oklahoma national guard are filled from the mass of the people, without class and without distinction. It is thoroughly representative of the patriotic spirit and democratic Americanism that distinguished our armies on the battlefields in France and the new guard taking up the duties and responsibilities of the service, stands ready to emulate the glorious record of the old guard by meeting the demands of the future with an unswerving devotion to duty and unflinching loyalty to our country and its flag.

Oklahoma is now in the forefront of the states in the number and efficiency of its national guard. The soldierly quality and high purpose of its enlisted and official personnel has won military praise from army officers qualified to judge, and with such officers and men the military department of the state feels confident of the future and secure in the belief that our national guard may be relied upon to perform its duty in every emergency that may confront the state.

Boy's Devotion to Memory of Mother Leads Him Into Trouble With Sweetheart

STRANGE SITUATION IN "BILL APPERSON'S BOY" GIVES JACK PICKFORD ROLE OF UNUSUAL KIND.

His staunch devotion to the memory of his dead mother is the force which leads Buddy Apperson to break with his father in "Bill Apperson's Boy," in which Jack Pickford will be seen at the American Theatre, starting next Thursday. In this picture Mr. Pickford plays a Blue Ridge Mountain lad, the son of Bill Apperson, a lovable old mountaineer.

Some years before the opening of the picture Bill Apperson's wife died. Both father and son revere her memory. Sundays, on their way home from the little church, they pause to doff their hats and stand silently for a moment beside the grave of the beloved wife and mother.

Gaddy Rescues a Stepmother. But now comes in another influence. Bill Apperson is lonely. He knows that he and Buddy would be more comfortable under the hand of a woman. One day as Buddy is out with his gun he is told in an insinuating way by a member of the Varnton family that his father is paying too much attention to "women." Buddy resents the insult, and whips the young man who was the author of it.

At home he is told by his father that the latter intends to be married to "one of the Hansons on Blackfern Mountain way." Then Bill Apperson asks his son if he will not be willing to accept the prospective stepmother as a mother in fact, call her such. To this Buddy will not agree. He says, "You can marry her if you want to, but she ain't my mother."

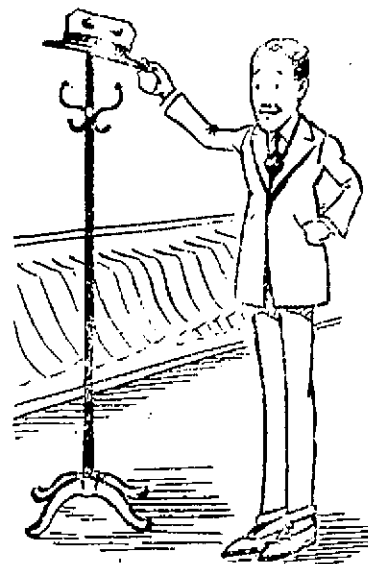

When the stepmother comes home Buddy does not accept her graciously. When he persists in his determination not to call her "Mother," his father cuts a stout stick and starts to give Buddy a whipping.

Runs from Kettle to Fire. Bill Apperson strikes but one blow and then there appears before him the form of his first wife, as she gently drew away the stick with which he had started to whip Buddy once years ago. Buddy, too, remembers the kindness of his real mother, and decides to leave home. A few hours after he steps from his father's house he becomes involved in the big situation of the story, and begins to need the protection of a father as never before.

There is a pretty love story in "Bill Apperson's Boy," telling how Buddy courted Martha Varnton, and how his affection for her led him into the crisis, which came on the night he left his father's house.

Now that the actors are all through striking and back to work again, they see how much better is even a small role than half a long loaf.—Boston Transcript.

CLOTHING STORE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Under the heading of "Favorite Sons," the Boston Traveler contains the following:

"It may be news to some outsiders to know that the bright and particular diadem star among Uncle Sam's all-star galaxy of forty-eight stars—count 'em—is Oklahoma, of whom 'twas written, 'Oklahoma or bust.'"

It is no secret out there that Bob, officially Robert Latham Owen, is her favorite son. Robert starts out with what looks like invincible armor in the form of his pedigree.

Oklahoma hasn't been married long enough to have a favorite son old enough to be her favorite, so Robert allowed himself to be adopted.

Now, get this straight. He is the Owen from whom Garry Owen was written!

He's American. His father was the famous Robert Latham Owen, who was president of the old Virginia & Tennessee railroad; his father was an absolute Gael. He was of aborigine Scotch (Robert) Irish (Latham) and Welsh (Owen) stock, and at times showed all the sterling traits of the three—Canny, belligerent and, my land, stubborn. He chose a real thoroughbred Indian girl as his bride, Narcissa Chisholm, a Cherokee, whose family chose the good old Scottish name of Chisholm for their own.

Is it to be wondered that our hero, Oklahoma's favorite son, early quite easily and totally showed the other kids, so history reads, that he was the peer of them in every way? They say he was a wonder with his fists in school. Likewise in college, Washington & Lee, where he got his degree when 22.

He early began preparing for the presidency by being in succession a teacher, an editor, a lawyer, a banker and a merchant. He acquired much enterprise from all connections, and was enabled to buy a tourist's ticket to Oklahoma when it was decided to give the wildcat a chance at the oil wells.

In 1892 he became a member of the national democratic committee, when only 26 years old, and at once became one of the big wigs. He drew that masterly platform of 1896, when McKinley was elected.

He is one of the senators and favorite sons who has a religious belief, being an ardent Episcopalian, and one of his achievements is in reciting the 39 articles of belief backwards.

He's a Mixer. Is he a mixer? Well, moderately so. For instance, he's one of them camel milk drinkers known as the Shriners. He wears a 32nd degree charm on the end of his watch chain is a K. T., an Elk, a Moose, a Woodman and A. M. and an L.L.D. and yet he never missed the keyhole.

It was on a bright December day, 12 years ago, that Oklahoma's legislature, by unanimous vote, sent him to the United States senate, where he has remained as official representative of the Irish, the Scotch, the Welsh, the Indians and the L.L.D.s. He is president of the National Popular Government League, advocates the I. and R. short ballot, rural credits, preferential ballot and most anything in the reform line. He also has helped out as the democratic senate big noise in the committee of banking and currency appropriations, Indian affairs, public health, national quarantine against republicans, territories and woman suffrage.

Now that you know why he is great, and have, no doubt, some Oklahoma gusher stock, you may understand why Robert Latham Owen basks in the sunlight as Oklahoma's favorite son.

BETTER COTTON WITH CARE IN SEED CHOICE

By the Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Better cotton through careful seed selection was promised to growers by E. C. Ewing in a paper delivered today before the World Cotton Conference.

Tracing the growth of cotton experiments by the Department of Agriculture for the last ten years Mr. Ewing showed that staple cotton developed by selection has evidenced marked improvement in grade and has withstood more easily the attacks of the boll weevil. The best results he declared had been obtained from seed of the Express variety which fruits early and has a high lint percentage.

Hybrid strains of cotton produced by cross seeds with the Express variety have shown excellent results and it is by this means that the continued improvement of cotton is expected. State and government institutions are looked to to carry on the systematic improvement of cotton as the average farmer is not considered equipped to produce dependable seed.

Seed stock of the average grower is sure to become contaminated when a variety is widely cultivated. It was pointed out and it is in this connection that well organized seed farms can perform valuable service. By maintaining the purity of the seeds by selection and isolation the seed farms can render available to the farmers adequate supplies of seed as needed from time to time. Unless there is a source for pure seed or an improved variety the growers' stock must necessarily deteriorate.

But through the work of seed farms and experimental stations in the care of the standard varieties and the development of new seeds, Mr. Ewing predicts that substantial benefits to the industry will be continuously forthcoming.
